Wages of Sin.
A $10,000,000 Train.
More Dictators.
Still Killing Indians.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of the Review-Tribune.)
Copyright, 1925.

The wages of sin is death, or, at least, much trouble. Stanford White was killed long ago, his problems quickly solved by a young man from Pittsburgh.

Now, Thaw's wife, for whom White was killed, drinks eight ounces of a poisonous mixture to kill herself. Clergymen will find in this a good text for a sermon that will not put the congregation to sleep.

Some "radical" clergymen might even engage Evelyn Thaw to appear in his church as a living text or "sad example," if she survives.

Henry Ward Beecher, in his Brooklyn pulpit, sold a mulatto girl at auction in old slavery days to emphasize a sermon against slavery.

Makes a good mouse trap and, as you know, the world will wear out a path to your door. Run a railroad well and your path across the continent will also be well used. The Twentieth Century, New York Central train, ran in seven sections one way and six the other recently. Its managers proudly announce that they took in on that one train $10,000,000 last year.

It costs more to go from New York to Chicago now comfortably than it did to go from New York to Liverpool on the fine old steamship Spain, first class, years ago. The flying machine will correct that. Men now of middle age will live to read this.

"Chicago to New York in three hours, round trip $25."

The little band of dictators is growing. Now Greece has hers in the person of General Pangalos. He has had to become a military dictator, and now issues a proclamation.

A war that was to make the world "safe for democracy" has thus far established dictatorships in Spain, Italy, Turkey and Greece. You never can be sure what a war will do once it starts.

Four white men are accused of forming a murder ring, that already has to its credit the deaths of 20 Ojaga Indians. Oil had made them rich, and in 1925, as in old Puritan days, it seemed to Christian white men wrong for Indians to have property. They killed them then, and they kill them now. But now is illegal, and the grand jury will see about them.

Near white men don't murder Indians. They wait until the Indians get the money, then go to them with whisky, leave the whisky behind and come back with the money.

France thought the Rif had given up fighting, at least until better weather. But the Rifis showed signs of life, not yet convinced that undying courage on the ground has little chance against poison gas and TNT in the air. So the French sent a few aviators, "flying low." They dropped bombs and report that things are peaceful again.

If the Rifis want to fight somebody, they ought to fight the United States. Against us they would have an even chance, since we have few flying machines, and those that we have don't fly, much.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, introduced by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to a gathering of ladies, says the first thing we need is "an arbitration agreement."

STEEL COMPANY WILL EXPEND $2,000,000 IN 1926 PROGRAM

Plans Erection of New Mill and Cindering Plant.

500 MORE JOBS

Four Additional Furnaces Increase Capacity 50 Per Cent.

The Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company of Midland today announced plans for an expansion program, costing approximately $2,000,000, which will be undertaken during 1926.

Erect Cindering Plant.
The improvements call for the erection of a new mill, containing four furnaces, and a cindering plant, according to an announcement by R. M. Keeney, general superintendent. The new mill will increase the capacity of the Midland plant 50 per cent and will mean the employment of approximately 500 additional workers, many of them skilled employees.

Work on the new cindering plant, which is being erected adjoining the present mill in the western end of the steel town, is already under way. Construction of the new mill will be started within the next 30 days and will be ready for operation within nine months.

The improvements are being supervised by plant engineers and executives.

Ohioan Dead, Woman Is Dying as Result Of Lovers' Quarrel

TOLEDO, Jan. 7.—Roy Austin, 42, is dead, and Katherine Sarka, 30, is lying at the point of death at St. Vincent's hospital today as a result of a lovers' quarrel, when Austin shot the woman and then committed suicide.

The shooting took place at the rooming house of the woman in Putnam. Austin wanted her to go out with him. They quarreled. He pulled a gun and shot her twice through the breast as she fled, then turned the gun on himself, firing one shot through the temple. He died instantly.

A three-room frame dwelling and its contents on Henry avenue, Gardendale, owned and occupied by Charles E. Brown, were destroyed by fire about 5:30 o'clock this morning, entailing a loss estimated at $2,500, partially covered by insurance.

The origin of the blaze has not been determined. The house was unoccupied for the night, Mr. and Mrs. Brown visiting with Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, of Woodbine street. The fire was discovered by Mrs. John Eilenbach of Pleasant Heights.

The fire department was not called.

The rules, virtually those adopted by like tribunals, were based upon the state court code.

Inmate of Asylum Identifies Convict as Brother.

HE'S CLAM-LIKE

California Prisoner Accused of Chicago Murder.

CHESTER, Ill., Jan. 7.—Further than to say "that's my brother, Robert," Russell Scott, who thrice skirted the gallows in the Joseph Maurer murder case, refused to add to his identification today of a picture of "John G. Redding" as his brother.

Scott was shown a newspaper containing the picture of the man held in California and who had been identified there as Robert Scott, sought for two years as the slayer of Maurer in Chicago.

After making the identification, Russell resumed the clam-like silence he has maintained in the asylum here. When questioned he waved interviews aside with remark "that is all I have to say."

Steamers Operate On Ohio River as Channel Ice Breaks

The Ohio river was open to navigation today for the first time in eight days, during which the surface was frozen.

The ice, which virtually covered the river from bank to bank from Wheeling into Pittsburgh, broke up yesterday afternoon. Floes from the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers are expected to pass out tomorrow.

The first boat to pass through the locks at Dam No. 8 this morning was the dredger, Virginia, enroute to Weirton where the Weirton Steel company is constructing large docks.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT KERR AS COUNCIL BEGINS WORK

Re-election of Arthur Shone as Clerk Virtually Agreed Upon at Informal Session.

THURSDAY TO BE MEETING NIGHT

Solicitor Hoover, Auditor McGraw and Service-Safety Director-Designate Moore Attend.

With the appointment of committees the city solons held their first meeting in the office of City Auditor William McGraw at the city hall last night. Inasmuch as several members had not filed their bonds, the session was informal gathering. The initial business session has been called for Friday evening.

Committee appointments announced by Council President N. P. Kerr are:

Finance—Thomas Farrall, George Hughes and Edgar Heddlston.

Ordinance—George Hughes, Clyde Goodballet and Thomas Farrall.

Franchise—Edgar Heddlston, Thomas Farrall and Marion Poole.

Claims—O. J. Herrington, Charles Hayes and Clyde Goodballet.

Rules—Clyde Goodballet, Edgar Heddlston and Marion Poole.

Streets—Charles Hayes, O. J. Herrington and Marion Poole.

Meetings in Courtroom.

While final decision as to the selection of a council clerk will not be made until Friday night, the re-election of Arthur Shone for two years was virtually agreed upon. The new president protested lies between Charles Hayes and Thomas Farrall, the only old members of the municipal legislative body.

The solons voted to change their meeting nights from the second and fourth Fridays to the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. This change will be embodied in the report of the rules committee.

The council reviewed briefly the city's finances, but inasmuch as no word has been received from Lisbon as to the tax apportionment, no consideration was given budget legislation.

Other matters which will face the solons during the next two years were discussed.

Council will meet in the municipal courtroom, Fourth and Market streets, in the future. All council chamber furniture at the city hall has been moved to the court building.

Other city officials who attended last night's meeting were: Solicitor Hoover and Auditor McGraw. John W. Moore, who assumes the post of service-safety director on January 15, under Mayor Ralph Benedum, also listened in on the proceedings.

Press Will "Listen In" On Caucuses of City Councilmen

Newspapermen will be permitted to "listen in" at caucus sessions of the city solons for another two years at least.

Members of the municipal body at their informal meeting last night offered no objection to the plan of admitting press representatives to their star chamber sessions, which in the future will be held in the municipal court headquarters.

For several years reporters were barred from these meetings, but during the last year were admitted upon a divided vote of the legislators.

There was no objection to the proposal which was made by Council President Kerr.

MINERS' STRIKE SETTLEMENT IS BELIEVED NEAR

Anthracite Operators and Union on Road to Peace.

LEADERS SILENT

Lewis Proposal Would Send Men Back to Work.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The strike of 150,000 anthracite coal miners is on the road to a settlement, despite intimations that the miners-operators conference is on the verge of a break-up.

The actual peace plan, announced exclusively by International News service late yesterday, is under consideration, and a definite agreement to end the strike, now in its fifth month, can be anticipated at any time, probably within the next few days.

It was predicted today, in a source fully informed and absolutely reliable, that it would take no more than three more meetings of miners and operators to reach the agreement—probably not that many.

HANLEY RULES ON RUM CHARGE

Verne Carroll Fined $100 by Municipal Judge.

Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley heard his first prohibition law case late yesterday afternoon, when Verne Carroll, proprietor of a Dresden avenue restaurant, faced him upon charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor.

Carroll was arrested by Patrolman Norman McFarland and Turnkey William Cline after the police found two half-pint bottles, partly filled with whiskey in his place of business. Several empty bottles were also located, police said.

The prisoner in pleading guilty, declared that "business was bad" and that he was selling liquor to make his ends meet. He was fined $100 and costs, part of which was paid at once and the remainder today.

TWO POLICEMEN AND TWO WOMEN AMONG ACCUSED IN CINCINNATI

Warrants Issued for Higher-ups in Moonshine Scandal.

NOVICE FREED

Millionaire Sought as Leader of Rum Organization.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 7.—A moonshine liquor ring of vast proportions, the largest since the one headed by George Remus, had been uncovered today by the federal authorities. So far 10 persons have been arrested, including two policemen and two women. These arrests are only preliminary to the round-up of higher-ups.

Other Police Suspected.

It was intimated that several more policemen might be involved. A millionaire bootlegger, living in one of the cities on the Kentucky shore of the Ohio river, is said to be the leader of the ring. The ring, it is reported, had headquarters in Campbell county, Kentucky, and distributed from points in various parts of northern Kentucky and Cincinnati, turning out about 1,000 gallons moonshine liquor a day. Tens of thousands of gallons of moonshine have found their way into Cincinnati and adjoining cities recently from this source.

Those arrested are: Albert Meyers, policeman of the Seventh district; Homer Moreland, sub-policeman of the First district; Joseph Matz, cafe owner on Reading road, Carlisle avenue and Vine street; Clarence Johnson, Covington, Ky., merchant broker; Mrs. Helen Scheid, of Dayton, Ky.; Mrs. Anna Hayes, of Dayton, Ky.; William T. Bunnell, of Dayton, Ky., and Wade, Raymond and Garth Trible, caretakers at the Terrace Inn.

Prisoners Questioned.

After being questioned by United States District Attorney Haveth E. Mau, all those arrested, except Moreland and Garth, were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. Moreland was allowed to go home but has to report in the federal building. It was said that he was a novice and was dragged into the affair by others. Garth Trible had no part in the conspiracy, but had been included in the blanket warrant.

Johnson and Matz were held in $20,000 bail bond each. Meyers in $10,000 and the others in $5,000.

RUSS CLING TO FEAST OF OLD CHRISTMAS

Gregorian Calendar Gives Peasants Two Celebrations.

EAT AND DRINK
January 7 is Date of Original Holiday.

MOSCOW — Christmas comes but once a year in every other country but Russia. Now, when Americans have picked the last turkey clean and made soup from his bones, the Russians are seating themselves to a second feast, thankful that the Soviet government changed the calendar and gave them two Christmases instead of one.

Officially, Russia adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1923, discarding the Julian, which had served the Orthodox Church since its foundation. The act lost the Russian people 13 days in the calendar. But millions of members of the church still cling to the old date, and since no Russian is averse to feasting as often as possible, the ma-

Georgia Woman Says Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup Restored Her Strength

One of the strongest statements ever given in favor of a medicine is that voluntarily made by Mrs. C. P. Autry, a prominent resident of Eliza, Ga., in telling of the benefits she had received through the use of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, the prescription that is accomplishing such remarkable results everywhere.

Mrs. Autry is proprietor of a mercantile business at Eliza and her reputation in the community is too well known for further comment. In a letter addressed recently to the Thacher Laboratories Mrs. Autry said:

"I am confident that Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup saved my life, for I was terribly run down and in such a miserable condition that I had almost given up all hope of ever getting on my feet again. But after taking Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup I have fully recovered my health and I wouldn't take anything on earth for the good this wonderful remedy has done me."

All druggists are instructed to return the purchase price of the first bottle if Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup fails to bring relief.

This celebrated prescription is being featured in East Liverpool by Cernahan's Drug Co.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL
By Edna Poe
Who Married For Money

FORTY-TWO.

In that moment Laurel Harwood's mind became a whirlpool; she was in terror. She had gotten up from the table, and it was only some subconscious power which stayed her impulsive and prevented a scene. Noble looked up with wide eyes as she made her surprising rush to his side, and Louis was startled.

"Oh, Noble!" she exclaimed, with half-suppressed agitation.

He jumped up and caught her by the shoulder. "What's the matter, dear, are you ill? Are you fainting?"

"... Louis, some brandy!"

Bewildered, she stared at him. "I thought—"

Suddenly she realized that she had misunderstood, and had barely escaped making a fool of herself. She put her hand to her head. "Oh! For a moment I thought I was going to faint," she lied. Her face was red with embarrassment. She refused the brandy the butler proffered anxiously, and moved back to her chair.

"Perhaps I had better remain with you this evening," Noble suggested.

"No, no, dear. I'm all right now. I think Marion would like to go to the theater with me."

"Doesn't look as if she intends to come home today," Noble remarked. After a pause he added, "I suppose she is with her mother."

"If she doesn't come soon, I believe I'll ask Bernice, or Alice Kendrick."

"I haven't seen anything of Alice lately. Why haven't you had her here for dinner?"

Laurel avoided his eyes as she answered, "She has been very busy—school and everything, you know. . . . And Alice is a little queer about some things. She doesn't want to come and see me now because she's afraid people will think she is pushing in where she isn't wanted. She is—"

"Bully! I like the spirit. Perhaps if we were to go for her together some day, she would get over that."

His wife's eyes lighted. "That would be splendid." She was warmed. "How sweet you are, dear! I've missed Alice so much."

"She's a nice girl. Make her come to dinner soon."

Laurel smiled appreciation. What had come over him. Until now Noble had given her the idea that he disliked Alice. She wondered what had made him change his mind.

Noble glanced at his watch. "Ten of eight. . . . You'd better hurry, if you're going to get some one else to go to the theater with you."

"And I suppose you are in a hurry, too?"

Something in her eyes made his glance fall. "Yes, dear, I am." They arose, and he offered his arm. "I—well, I may be in very late tonight, or possibly, not at all."

With his instructions to Louis regarding a change of clothing, in mind, she endeavored to appear no more than curious. "Why, dear, what are you going to do?"

"Well, it's like this," he began, as if feeling guilty. "I got into a poker game at the club last night, and it was an unusually tight game and everybody was enjoying it until I had to go. They laughed at me because I left early and kidded me about being chicken-pecked and all that. I—uh—"

Laurel patted him on the hand. "I understand, dearest." He was, she thought, just like a little boy with his confession.

"There's going to be a big game to-night, and it may last late—even until daylight, and—"

"Stay until it is finished." She halted him at the library door. "I'm sorry because of what I said, dear. I want you to enjoy yourself, and I don't want to tag along always. I understand that you don't want to appear, well, under the rule of my little finger—"

"Oh, it isn't that—"

"Never mind." She pressed a finger to his lips.

"I'm taking a suit along so that if the game lasts late, I won't have to come home in this attire. It doesn't take much to start people talking, you know."

"Yes, I do know," she said.

Noble wondered momentarily whether her response was so emphatic.

"Run along now, dear," she said.

He did not release the hand he held. "I love you so! You're so sweet." He bent his lips down to her moist red lips and looked deeply into her eyes, great black pools of starry darkness. Her stiffness yielded to his caress, and she clung to him.

"I don't want to go," he murmured.

Laurel pulled herself free. "No, run along, dear, and have that good time."

"You talk as if you didn't want me to stay," he said, piqued.

"You know that I do—but you have already made your plans."

Her tone hurt. "You're getting even with me now—"

Perhaps this scene would have been much more lengthy but for Marion. They released each other at the sound of a voice in the hall calling Joseph.

"Do you really want me to go, dear?" Noble asked earnestly.

"You know, precious, that I would rather have you with me, or be with you—I'm always lonely without you—but I don't want you to deny yourself these enjoyable evenings with other men. . . ."

"I won't do this very often. . . ."

"I wish you wouldn't feel that you have to defend yourself."

Marion burst into the library. "Hello, everybody!"

"Your usual hour of arrival," her father observed. "And now I suppose you are going to rush out some place?"

"I'm sorry I wasn't here for dinner," she said, coming to him. "I haven't had any. However, I'm not going anywhere, so I suppose I can get Louis to find something for me. What did you have?"

Her father ignored the question. "Laurel would like you to go to the theater with her. I have seats for a box, but cannot go."

Laurel wished that Noble had let her make the invitation.

"Sure, I'll go."

Noble gave his wife's hand a squeeze. "Goodbye then, dear."

As she watched him leave with the bag Louis had waiting in the hall, Laurel's expression took on an intensity that would have puzzled Marion, had she noticed it. Their marriage life, Laurel suddenly realized, was entering a new phase. The honeymoon was over. He was thinking of his own pleasure first now. She understood the theater tickets and his sudden change in attitude toward Alice Kendrick. He wanted her to amuse herself. . . . Was he really going to play poker at the club all night? Remembrance of those powder marks upon his coat in New York—upon their honeymoon, crept into her mind. (To be continued.)

Economy In Baltimore

Baltimore's tax rate has fallen 16 per cent in two years. It is such a surprising condition for an American city that other communities want to know how in the world it was accomplished.

One of the means to this desirable end was the reduction of the number of employees operating the city's pay roll system from 134 to 23. With the larger force, it is said, it was usually 15 days from the time a city worker signed the roll before he received his money. At present that period is only two to four days. There appears to have been as much economy of time and effort here as of personnel and money.

A second means of economy has been the handling of city automobiles. Under a former system these cars were kept in scattered garages throughout the city. Garage hire came high, and joy-riding in public-owned cars was not unheard of. Today all city automobiles are kept in a central garage. They are used only for business, are returned promptly when city duties are performed, and their upkeep has been amazingly reduced.

Baltimore now stores its city supplies through the activities of only one bureau instead of 25, as formerly. Cost for such service has dropped from $92 per thousand to $35. This has saved $75,000 this year and is expected to save $175,000 next year. It has also released for other uses property worth $378,000.

A fourth, and most startling, means is the refusal of automobile licenses to city tax delinquents. This has put new habits into no less than 8,000 former tax-evaders.

By such simple arrangements the city of Baltimore finds itself possessed of a surplus of $2,500,000. Its costly borrowing ways seem to be over.

Won't similar economies work equally well anywhere?

Noise Absorbers

Our civilization is wonderfully convenient and useful, but noisy. Wherefore many seek quiet for ears and nerves in the simple life. Primitive hardships are endurable, they say, if primitive silence goes with them.

Now that may be unnecessary. Recent discoveries show the possibility of killing noise. We may have noise-absorbers just as we have shock-absorbers. We may put mufflers into our houses as we put them on our automobiles, and "look up a scream" as we look up a gas engine explosion. We may shut out a jazz band or a rattling trolley car as we shut out a blizzard.

This is proved in the "sound laboratory" of the federal bureau of standards at Washington. Genuinely sound-proof walls and partitions are now obtainable. They are not solid walls, either. In fact, they are precisely the opposite. For though air is the great conductor of sound, it is found that air layers or cells in solid matter kill sound. Noises simply get tangled up in the tiny air pockets of sugar-cane fiber, felt and other light, porous substances, when they would vibrate through solid steel or concrete. Build such stuff into the wall, or hang it on the wall, or plaster it on a part of the finishing, and the noise devil is baffled.

There is going to be a big demand for that sort of thing.

Foolish Fires

It has long been customary in sections of the South for farmers and cattle men to burn leaves and underbrush in the belief that burning over the range destroyed the cattle tick and improved the condition of the range. This custom has often led to the destruction of fences and farm buildings and has started a good many forest fires.

Now comes a report from the government experiment station at McNeill, Miss., stating that these range fires not only do no good but are a positive scourge to the timber country. They fail to wipe out the cattle tick, but they do kill carpet grass and other valuable plants, along with still more valuable timber.

Therefore the Arkansas Gazette asks every farmer of that state and of every southern state to make himself a volunteer fire warden, to stop burning over his own land and to help in checking the custom everywhere.

It is a warning that needs to be taken to heart by farmers and landowners in the North as well as the South, wherever the custom of burning out groves and underbrush exists.

Two Expense Items

America must be prepared to defend herself by force, as long as force rules the world. That is self-understood. It applies to armies and navies. It presupposes the maintenance of competent, modern defensive craft for sea and air.

Having granted that, it may be worth while to revert to one of the most striking cartoons of the time, appearing recently in the New York World, and recommended to the "attention of Mr. Taxpayer."

Uncle Sam stands thinking, with a sheet of paper in each hand. On one sheet is this item of national expense: "Cost of One Naval Airplane Carrier, $48,000,000." On the other is the item: "Cost of Delegation to Disarmament Conference, $75,000."

At a time when tax reduction is foremost in the public mind, no taxpayer will fail to get the force of that. Moralists, too, will find in it food for thought.

As if there weren't enough real estate available now, an expedition is going to start out in the spring to look for a new continent in the Arctic.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—There is a soul-chilling wrap to the loneliness many beautiful women in Manhattan endure. They are not those cast of common mould—the adventures looking for cheap flirtation. They are of good birth and respectability.

Yet you see them sitting alone in the cafe or at the play. There is no flaunting of cosmetic boldness. They dress smartly and simply. Only a single jewel may be displayed. All about are well-spired women known for their reckless extravagances and dissipation.

In a way it is one of New York's social gestures. The lady sits alone. The wanton seems overwhelmed with a succession of admirers. The town's beaux seem to be lured by a fluffy manner and lurid past. These lonely women have courage, resource and charm.

They will not indulge in the light and casual contacts of the boulevards and cafes which result in a wide if not constant circle of friends. They prefer to go it alone and of course in the end it results in stability of home and permanency of devotion.

In one of the boxes at a theatre recently sat a woman alone. She wore an admirable gown of black and there was a gallant poise to her head. During the play ushers brought three marsh notes to her. Finally with a helpless look she sprang to her feet and departed.

New York simply could not believe she wished to be alone, and yet it is told she came back from Europe widowed and wanted friends, but rather than meet them in haphazard fashion she had instead been here five weeks and had talked only to her hotel floor clerk and personal maid.

The chance acquaintance here often leads to sinister situations—blackmail and even murder. But these are not the things feared by beautiful and lonely women. They merely want to meet nice people in a nice way and to do this they must suffer very often a great loneliness.

Flirtations are largely geographical. Location makes the flirt. A strange man in a small town may inquire of a strange lady whether she is going and she will probably tell him frankly to the butcher shop. The same question on Broadway might result in a slap on the jaw and a whistle for a cop. Herding it would seem makes the male flirtations. Most flirts are arrested in the sardine-jammed subway trains.

A friend whose reputation is spotless lost his sense of direction one evening. It was on a deserted thoroughfare and a lone woman was approaching. He lifted his hat to inquire the way. She uttered a shrill scream for help and he bolted like a frightened deer. He knew it would be difficult to prove his innocence before a magistrate.

The police used to have a Master Squad whose duty was to scour the town for the male Romances. I believe it has been abolished. New York women know how to take care of themselves. If friendly sympathizers do not handle the passing philanderer the corner policeman will.

Several years ago a sculptor of note, walking the avenue, hurried to catch up with a lady. He thought she was his wife and he slipped his arm through hers. She was a stranger and when he realized there might be a scene he fell to the sidewalk in a fake swoon. The lady hurried away and Samaritans helped him into a taxicab. Quick thinking that!

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

LaFollette's Status

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—One of the big surprises in connection with the opening of the new congress was the action of the Old Guard Republican leaders in according Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., a measure of recognition as a Republican when he presented his credentials as the new senator from Wisconsin. It was a right-about-face on the part of the veteran Republican solons who have never had any use for progressives or radicals, and who had served notice in advance of his election that young Bob would never be received into the G. O. P. fold.

That they should so reverse themselves occasioned the customary nine days' wonder in Washington. Moreover, it led to endless speculation as to the influence, the reason or the man or men, that brought it about.

The generally accepted explanation was that the party leaders had decided on a policy of conciliation in dealing with the progressives because of the margin by which the Republicans held control of the senate, and that President Coolidge, concerned lest his administration be featured by another party rupture, had much to do with the decision.

Looking ahead to the presidential contest of 1928 and bearing in mind the importance of getting their legislative program through congress with as little friction and as expeditiously as possible, it was said, the G. O. P. chieftains had concluded that it was more important to get people into the Republican party than it was to hard or kick out undesirables. Therefore LaFollette would be taken in—not welcomed and made a fuss over—but taken in, and given an opportunity to demonstrate that he was a Republican, as the voters of Wisconsin had said he was on sending him to the senate. He was recognized as a bad boy, but it was hoped that he was not incorrigible and that under kindly tutelage and gentle but firm discipline he might be persuaded to mind his p's and q's and become an ordinary member of orderly society.

Heredity vs. Environment.

According to the theory underlying this explanation an experiment would be made that might go far toward determining the moot question as to whether heredity or environment is the controlling influence in moulding character. The senior LaFollette had been a trouble maker in and out of the Republican party for more than a quarter of a century. LaFollette, the younger, was his father's son, but perhaps he was not really a chip off the old block. Perhaps, if he were to be taken into the fold and given the right kind of associates—given a chance to live and have his being in an atmosphere of sweetness and light, so to speak—environment might triumph over his blood heritage.

It is an interesting theory—and plausible, for that matter—but it develops that it is not correct, if the story that has just leaked out be true. Young LaFollette was received, tentatively, into the Republican party, not with any idea of working out his regeneration and making him a desirable and valued member, but essentially for the reason that the late Woodrow Wilson took the late William Jennings Bryan into his official family as a member of his cabinet.

"I'd rather have him on the inside looking out than on the outside looking in," Wilson is said to have replied to his close friends who expressed their amazement that he had invited Bryan to become secretary of state. "He'll make trouble, inside or out, but I hope to handicap him slightly."

The history has not yet been written—at least, such an up-to-date history is not used in the Washington schools—which says whether Wilson was right or wrong, but political observers here who chronicle events that may become history are substantially agreed that he was right. Bryan did make trouble for Wilson, but nothing comparable to what he might have made if he had been a free and unrestrained critic of everything Wilson did from the day the latter was first inaugurated.

In the case of the junior LaFollette, however, there was a further consideration that had much to do with the decision to give him committee assignments as a Republican.

No Halo of Martyrdom.

"Why start him off on his career with the halo of martyrdom irradiating his youthful head? Why bar him from the party when we don't know as yet whether he wants to be in it? Why make him important before we know whether he is important? Why go behind the returns from Wisconsin and say he isn't a Republican before we have a chance to see what he is? Why do something to make him a first page story in every newspaper in the country before we see whether he can make the first page under his own steam? Why give him a chance to signalize his appearance in the senate by making a speech attacking us that will attract nation-wide attention? Why treat him any other wise than we would treat any other new senator-elect certified to us by his secretary of state as a Republican? Why play his name for him when he is only hoping we'll do what we've threatened to do?"

These questions, or substantially these questions, were asked in the G. O. P. council by none other than Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, a regular of regulars, and the last man to be expected to take such a stand but for the fact that he is a shrewd politician.

And it is said that after these questions had been asked the sages of the party pondered them over and then, one by one, they echoed, "Why?" They could find no other answer.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, who hates radicalism as the devil hates holy water, and Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, who regards President Coolidge as his personal achievement, were the last to agree to the Smoot proposal as to how to deal with LaFollette. It is understood, but in the end they acquiesced, with a stipulation. This was that the new senator from Wisconsin be asked if he expected or desired committee assignments as a Republican. They argued that in this way LaFollette would be smoked out and placed on record.

They were mistaken. LaFollette, the younger, it seemed, knows more or less about politics. He simply sat tight and ignored the communication. The returns from Wisconsin said he was a Republican. All right—let somebody say he was not!

The result was that he was given tag-end assignments on unimportant committees as a Republican, and nothing more was said about it.

And it may be said in vindication of Senator Smoot's astuteness that if the new senator from Wisconsin eventually appears adorned with a halo it will be one of his own making, and not one of martyrdom fashioned for him by those who do not like his particular brand of politics or Republicanism.

An interesting bit of gossip about the status accorded LaFollette has it that President Coolidge was informed at length and in detail concerning Senator Smoot's ideas as to the wise course to be pursued. Whereupon the president delivered himself of the longest speech he has made on any subject pertaining to party politics since he was elected.

"Sounds sensible!" he is reported to have said.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at C. G. Anderson's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

POPULATION IS CONCERN OF TOKIO LEADERS

Fear Day Will Come
When Japan Cannot Support People.

SEEK OUTLET
Many Now Look to Siberia and Manchuria for Homes.

TOKYO.—The spectre of over-population constantly haunts the statesmen and leaders of public thought in Japan. Of the many problems that beset the nation that of caring for its surplus people is, perhaps, the most pressing. The fear of the nation's leaders is that the day will come when the agricultural and industrial resources of the nation no longer will be able to bear the burden of supporting the nation's people.

With this question of surplus population constantly in their minds, it is not surprising that leading Japanese are frequently to be found proposing new schemes for distributing the people of the country to sparsely settled regions where opportunities for self-support are more numerous.

One of the favorite plans proposed is the colonization of the Hokkaido, one of the largest islands of the Japanese group that lies to the north of Honshu, the main island of the group. The Hokkaido has large areas of unsettled land and is rich in natural resources, but the severity of its climate renders it unattractive to a majority of the Japanese. Emigration to South China and the South Sea Islands also is sponsored by many, but this idea never has gained a foothold in responsible quarters.

See Two Outlets.
Of late an increasing number of persons have been turning their eyes toward Manchuria and Siberia as a possible outlet for Japan's increasing population. This solution now has been sponsored by a committee on Food and Population appointed by the Ken-seikai, the dominant political party, and may eventually become a plank in that party's platform.

This scheme proposed by the committee calls for negotiation of treaties with China and Russia, which would grant large tracts of uncultivated territory in Manchuria and Siberia to Japan for development. Japanese immigrants would be encouraged to settle in these territories and Japanese capital would provide funds for development work. It is alleged that there are more than 12,000,000 acres of land suitable for such purposes in Trans-Baikalia, Amur and the Maritime Province east of Baikal in Siberia.

Food Value Also.
Besides affording an outlet for excess population, the proponents of this plan aver, it would also result in increased production of rice, wheat, beans and other foodstuffs highly essential to Japan.

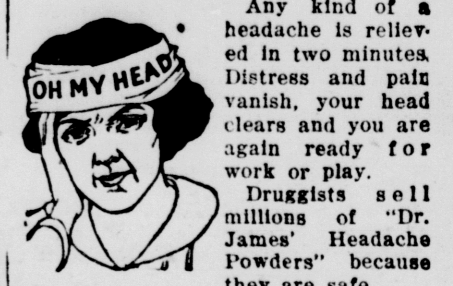

That Japan's hope of solving her population problem lies in distribution of her surplus people somewhere in the sparsely settled sections of the Asiatic mainland is known to be the belief of a majority of her responsible leaders. It would not be surprising, therefore, if an attempt eventually were made to work out a plan along the general lines suggested by the Ken-seikai committee.

BURY POISON VICTIM FRIDAY

Body of Miss Bell Arrives in Wellsville.

Private funeral services for Miss Rosa Bell, 19, daughter of Robert Bell, Eighteenth and Main street, Wellsville, who died yesterday as a result of drinking a quantity of lye at her home in Canton, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the father's residence. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Although Stark County Coroner McQuate returned a verdict of suicide, following the girl's death, friends of the family in Wellsville today asserted that the girl had swallowed the disinfectant accidentally, using it as a gargle for sore throat.

Miss Bell, it is claimed, had been suffering from tonsillitis.

PHILATELIC CLUB TO MEET FRIDAY

The East Liverpool Philatelic club, made up of members of the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., will meet in the "Y" at 7 o'clock Friday evening. The class, which was organized last fall, suspended meetings during the holiday season. Brady Buchanan is in charge of the class.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES' MEMORY PLAYS HIM ANOTHER MEAN TRICK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The memory of Vice President Charles G. Dawes has played him another trick, it developed today.

Last night the vice president and Mrs. Dawes attended a dedication banquet at the Hamline Methodist church. When the ceremonies were over, the church women presented Mrs. Dawes with a large bouquet of flowers, explaining it was her birthday.

Gen. Dawes was dumfounded. Somewhat embarrassed, he said: "I'm sure Mrs. Dawes will doubly appreciate this. I forgot it was her birthday and didn't get her anything."

The vice president once forgot to turn on an alarm clock while taking a nap, and his absence from the senate floor cost Charles B. Warren of Michigan the attorney generalship. Warren was defeated by one lone vote.

of a Protestant minister, which will permit Mrs. Vanderbilt actually witnessing the rites, as she abstained from doing at her older daughter's wedding.

Just prior to his departure for Rome recently, Cardinal Hayes granted a dispensation allowing Consuelo to marry a non-Catholic under the rules and pledges imposed by the church in such circumstances, and Rev. Thomas F. Murphy, pastor of the Church of the Resurrection, who married the bride's parents more than a quarter of a century ago, will unite the couple.

Coincidence reaches out further to take a part in today's ceremony, manifesting itself in the illness of the bride's sister, Mrs. Church. When Muriel was married, Consuelo, stricken with appendicitis, bravely left her bed to attend her sister as maid of honor, only to be rushed to the operating table immediately after the wedding.

Miners' Peace Near

Neither the operators nor the miners as they prepared to go into a conference again today, would discuss this peace plan, but, significantly, they would not deny that they have it under consideration.

While the official statements that are passed out to reporters say they are "still discussing the disputed questions of arbitration and check-off," it is known that the operators are giving the most serious consideration, taking precedence over other matters, to the new peace plan which was originally proposed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and later modified by operators and miners.

This plan, if accepted, would immediately send the men "back to the mines." It parallels the plan which was used in settling the differences in the building trades controversy and now needs only trimming here and there to be acceptable to both sides.

General Principle of Plan.

The general principle of the plan includes representation of both operators and miners on a "mediation" board which would settle the big questions which both sides have quarreled over for years and which are responsible for recurring strikes. The board would have five members, the fifth to be chosen by ballot.

Questions in dispute would be presented annually to this board. In the event this board could not agree on some disputed question, the issue would be referred to an arbitrator, this umpire to be selected by the five members of the board.

Both sides have gone over this plan thoroughly. What they have yet to settle before the strike is ended is the duration of the agreement and the amount of a wage increase that is to be granted under the new pact. The general belief is that the miners will get a five per cent increase. Lewis asked for a 10 per cent raise.

Mutual agreement on this plan would settle the bitterly disputed questions of arbitration and the check-off, and bring to an end the conflict that both sides recognize has seriously crippled the anthracite industry.

Veil of Secrecy Marks Inquiry Into Murders of Osages

GUTHRIE, Okla., Jan. 7.—With the veil of secrecy more tightly drawn, the federal grand jury investigating alleged wholesale murders of Osages, the world's wealthiest Indians, resumed today after a short recess yesterday afternoon.

Olive Pagan, government's expert indictment writer from Washington, with additional attorneys from the department of justice at Washington, were here today and went into conference with United States District Attorney Roy Lewis. Assistant Attorney General Edwin Brown, who is in personal charge of the inquiry, and Federal Judge John H. Cotterall.

Reports that differences over handling of the case between state and federal officers had caused sudden recessing of the tribunal yesterday when 200 witnesses were in the corridors awaiting call, were given added credence today when it was learned Assistant Attorney General Edwin S. Dabney of Oklahoma arrived from Oklahoma City soon after the recess was taken.

Robert Pickens Faces Municipal Judge on Charge of Fighting

Charged with disorderly conduct by fighting, Robert Pickens, was arrested at his home in Shadyside avenue by Bailiff Carman Hissam this morning on information preferred by Arnold Vandine, of Jethro. He will be arraigned before Municipal Judge Hanley this afternoon.

The arrest followed a quarrel which is said to have occurred at the corner of Sixth and Dresden avenue, Sunday evening, in which Vandine lost two teeth.

Habby Dahr, Syrian, giving Johnston, Pa., as his place of residence, is in jail awaiting payment of a fine of $50 assessed against him by Judge Hanley upon a charge of being a suspicious person. Dahr was arrested Wednesday evening by Chief of Police McDermott and Captain Conley.

STRESSEMAN SPURNS WILSON PEACE PRIZE

Inability to go to New York Given as Excuse.

BERLIN COMMENT

Press Hints Refusal Direct Against Late President.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Herr Stresseman has refused to accept the annual peace prize of the Wilson foundation not because of animosity towards the late President Wilson but because it would be impossible for him to go to New York on the birthday of President Wilson to accept the prize, according to a statement made today by the foreign office.

The foreign office denied reports that Herr Stresseman had refused the prize because he charged that the late President Wilson had failed to insist upon his fourteen points as the basis for a peace settlement.

The Nationalist press is making much of Herr Stresseman's refusal and is using it as a vehicle to arouse again old animosities, hailing the declaration as an act of patriotism.

Der Tag declares that Stresseman's act properly voices the feelings of all Germans with regard to the late Woodrow Wilson, but adds that "the United States should realize that the refusal is only directed against the father of the fourteen points and is not intended as an offense against the United States generally."

The Deutsches Zeitung assails Stresseman, not because he refused the prize, but because he failed to refuse it upon moral and political grounds.

CROWD HEARS REV. W. A. KNAPP

Evangelist Speaks on "Eternal Record" at M. P. Church.

Increased interest marked last night's revival meeting in the First Methodist Protestant church, when Rev. W. A. Knapp, of Westerville, spoke on "The Eternal Record."

A song service preceded the meeting. Russell Kauffman, evangelistic singer, rendered "Grace Greater Than Our Sin." The choir sang "How Can I Help But Love Him" as an offering.

Rev. Mr. Knapp said in part: "Each of us will have to give an account of ourselves to God, and when the books are opened we will be judged by the records we are writing today. The Lord has His eye upon us and the records will be minute, including every word, action and thought of our life. All the remorse and agony of your soul cannot alter your eternal record."

"But, that sinful record of the past can be blotted out by the blood of the Son of God and the page can be made white and pure."

"When God opens the books, will your name be written in the Lamb's book of life? Because your name is in the church record does not mean that your name is written in Heaven."

Tonight will be official board night. Rev. Mr. Knapp's subject will be, "The Ideal Church."

Capitol Hill Digs Self Into Trenches For Political War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—With Capitol Hill digging itself into trenches for a protracted political war, the senate judiciary committee today launched an investigation of the department of justice's alleged delay in bringing an anti-trust prosecution against the Mellon-owned aluminum company of America.

Sponsored by Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D.) of Montana, famous Teapot Dome prosecutor, the investigation started out with the expressed purpose of learning why the department of justice failed to take action upon a complaint issued against the aluminum company in November, 1924, by the federal trade commission.

It was speeded up because, Walsh declared, unless such a prosecution is started by January 30, the statute of limitations will prevent any court action.

Administration leaders were watching the investigation closely, because of its political significance. They saw in it not only a direct attack on Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, but also upon President Coolidge's personal selection for the attorney generalship, John G. Sargent.

Riddle-Miller Wedding. Marriage of Daniel M. Miller, 22, student, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miller, Lisbon, and Miss Mary E. Riddle, 16, high school student, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. THAMES, SEINE RIVERS RISING

British and French Towns are Under Water.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Floods in the Thames valley were seriously aggravated today by a renewal of the heavy rainfall. A number of villages and small towns were reported completely under water.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—All trains were diverted from the Invalides railroad station to the depot Montparnasse today owing to a sudden rise of the Seine which threatened to flood the tracks.

The Seine rose 36 inches during the last 24 hours and this morning was creeping menacingly upon the suburbs of Paris. This year's deluge, however, is still five feet below the high mark of 1924 and eight below the disastrous washout of 1910.

Except for these two record marks the rise of the waters this year exceeds any since 1882. Creil, Nogent and Montataire have been flooded and 10,000 acres out of work.

The night express from Brussels was hours late in arriving, long stretches of track having been completely hidden from sight by the waters.

The Seine is expected to reach its high water mark tonight or tomorrow.

Large supplies of bread and other food are being rushed to the flooded districts of the Oise valley.

Reports from Brussels state that the floods there are receding in the northern part of Belgium. Much of the Brussels mining district is under water and 15 houses in the town of Seraing have collapsed.

Holland is gradually returning to normal conditions, although it will take many weeks to repair the damage done by the high waters.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Industrial stocks were buoyant in the early trading today, continuing the rally which was in progress at the close of yesterday's session nearly all of the active oil, motor, independent steel and public utility stocks advanced on good buying to higher price levels in the first period, under the same leadership. Consolidated gas sold up to a record high price of 97 1/2 in the lead of utility stocks, and United States Steel immediately resumed the advance which featured Wednesday's closing period.

The money market displayed an easier trend, with call rates at 4 per cent and time funds available at slight concessions from last week's prevailing rates. Yesterday's excellent dividend records brought in additional buying orders from the outside points, and current reports from the steel industry were characterized as unusually favorable for this time of year.

General Motors, Willys-Overland and other active motor stocks sold about a point higher. Chrysler was represented by the new stock, with valuation of a fourth of the old shares, removed from the trading list today. Rumors of a new gigantic merger of independent oil companies operating in the mid-continent field were without special effect on the market for independent oil stocks, though prices were marked up fractionally higher at the opening and the higher values were generally maintained. Pacific Oil sold up fractionally to 61 1/2, Simms at 26 1/2, Marland above 58 and Pan-American B above 75.

The independent steel stocks were also in fairly good demand on a rising market. Bethlehem steel selling about 35 for the first time since last April. Woodworth made a new gain of 4 1/2 points and reached 219 1/2, in the lead of the mercantile stocks; American Can and other high priced speculative leaders sold up from 1 to 3 points. Outside commodity markets were slightly irregular.

President Hears Men Who Urge Rail Labor Board Death

Financiers and Railroad Chieftains Recommend Creation of Another Agency Less Obnoxious to Capital and Labor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—

The men who finance and manage the great railroad systems of the nation and the men who actually operate them, presenting a united front, today laid before President Coolidge a proposal for abolition of the much-discussed railroad labor board, and the substitution therefor of another agency, less obnoxious to capital and labor, yet still affording "adequate protection to the public."

The new proposal, it is understood, contains features embodying regional adjustment, mediation and arbitration of all railroad labor disputes, without the extreme mandatory powers now vested in the labor board which are so distasteful to managers and employees alike.

Should President Coolidge concur in the idea that the new agency will be so constituted as to protect the public interest, he will immediately recommend its enactment by congress, for in his annual message to that body he said:

"I am informed that the railroad managers and their employees have reached a substantial agreement as to what legislation is necessary to regulate and improve their relationship. Whenever they bring forward such proposals, which seem sufficient able to protect the interest of the public, they should be accepted into law."

Today, he heard from the representatives of the powerful railway brotherhoods that a mutually satisfactory plan had been worked out. This was in confirmation of what he had been told by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives.

Delta Line Boat Will Make Annual Mardi Gras Trip

The Delta line steamer, "Kate Adams," of Cincinnati, will make the annual Mardi Gras trip to New Orleans this year. Ross Deemer, general agent, and N. W. Meyer, freight agent for the company, were here yesterday conferring with Wharfmaster Ross Tisher, local agent, regarding the trip.

The boat will leave Pittsburgh on February 4, returning about February 25, the round trip requiring about 21 days. It will reach East Liverpool on the down river voyage on the evening of February 4.

Count Salm, married to an heiress of the Rogers Standard Oil fortune, demands that his son, and her son, be turned over to him, pending the outcome of his suit to gain permanent possession of the child.

A few years ago that would have been a matter of course. Every court would have said, "of course, the child belongs to the father."

Public opinion influences even the laws. It now may be decided that the mother has rights in the child that she has created, and in this case, incidentally, to the child that she supports.

YOUR HEALTH

Why a Mother Should Nurse Her Baby If Possible

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHAT is the most important profession or occupation? Medicine? Engineering? Statesmanship? Journalism? Architecture? Farming? Plumbing? Teaching? Preaching?

The most important business in the world is the mother job.

God could not be everywhere so he made mothers. They are the immediate agents of the Almighty.

Without proper feeding no baby could live to grow up. The best chance of surviving lies with the breast-fed baby. Unfortunately, not every mother is well enough, or otherwise capable of nursing her infant. Mother love is such that she gladly does this, cheerfully making the personal sacrifice if she can.

If breast feeding is impossible, or if it must be supplemented by additional food, there arises at once a new problem. The problem of preparing cow's milk for human consumption is a complicated one.

From earliest times it has been found necessary to "modify" the cow's milk in order to make it suitable. This is done because of the difference in the chemical and physical make-up of the two milks. It is only an occasional child who thrives on undiluted or unmodified cow's milk.

If the unchanged cow's milk is given a baby, it is very likely to develop stomach and intestinal troubles. The infant does not gain weight, nor give evidence by clear skin and firm flesh that it is properly nourished.

The common thing to do is to add water and sugar to make the artificial feeding as much like human milk as possible. But even when these changes are made, the cow's milk is not ideal because the curdable of neutralizing the stomach juices. On this account it may seriously disagree with the digestion.

It has been found that acidified milk does not neutralize the gastric juices. Efforts have been made to avoid stomach disturbances by adding small quantities of lactic acid to the baby's feedings.

The latest work in this line has been done by Dr. Alfred F. Hess and Milton J. Matzner, of New York City. They have upset the old prejudice against a mixture of milk and orange juice.

Sometimes egg yolk was combined with this mixture. This supplied still other important elements of the food.

Such a mixture has other advantages over plain cow's milk, because it gives the child a food which guards against scurvy and rickets. It supplies iron and the growth-promoting vitamins.

If your baby is thriving as it should, talk with your doctor about these new ideas in infant feeding. He may not think they are desirable in your case. In any case, it is well to get his opinion, which is better than everybody else's, because he knows all about you and your baby.

FIRE DESTROYS COMPANY HOUSE

Three Irondale Families Flee as Flames Raze Home.

Three families were made temporarily homeless when fire destroyed a company house on the property of the East Ohio Sewer Pipe Works, at Irondale, last night.

The fire, breaking out shortly after 7 o'clock, is believed to have originated from an overheated stove in use in one of the sections of the building.

The structure, of one-story frame construction, was burned to the ground, the flames spreading over the building rapidly. Only part of the furnishings and equipment of the three families was saved.

No one was injured during the fire. The loss is estimated at approximately $1,000.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a dark brown mouth—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, at bed time.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

W. F. Lones, J. H. Brookes, L. P. Metzger and Frank L. Wells Will Attend Cincinnati Conference.

W. F. Lones and J. H. Brookes, of East Liverpool, have been chosen as two of the four members of the Columbiana County Bar association who are to represent the local bar group as delegates to the annual mid-winter conference of the Ohio Bar association at Cincinnati January 28, 29 and 30. L. P. Metzger of Salem and Frank L. Wells of Wellsville are the other delegates from Columbiana county.

Recodification of the criminal code of Ohio is to be urged at this conference and the local delegates will be called upon to assist in deciding whether the state bar association is to demand that the legislature enact a measure providing such a reform. Elimination of the technicalities by which many criminals escape justice, and a speeding up of court procedure is expected from recodification, according to the committee on judicial administration and legal reform which has recommended the proposed change.

It is probable also that discussion will be had of the proposed abandonment of the grand jury system by Ohio, since the same committee has made an exhaustive survey of this subject.

The three day session is to be closed by a testimonial dinner to former Governor Judson Harmon, of Cincinnati, the oldest living ex-president of the state association. Former U. S. Senator Chester I. Long of Kansas, president of the American Bar association, is to be the principal speaker at this affair.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During The Day.

C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) I had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder trouble." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as effluent salts do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, Druggist.

Clever Dancing Is Feature of Al G. Field's Minstrels

Two Doran Brothers, Bert Swor, Jack Richards and Billy Church at Ceramic Theatre Tonight.

Dancing of the kind that fascinates the eye to watch—quick, nimble and eccentric—will be an important feature of the new 39th annual edition of the Al G. Field Minstrels, which will be seen at the Ceramic theater tonight.

The two Doran Brothers, Billy and Leo head the dancing cast, which has remained practically intact for years. Billy Doran directs and coaches the dances and many of them are his own original interpretations.

This season he has concocted a most pleasing diversion out of the nursery rhyme, "Little Boy Blue," which he calls "A Study in Azure and Ebony," which, with wonderful costuming and especially written music, presents a unique study. In the last act of the show his dancers appear on the lawn of a colonial mansion of Louis XIV. in a guise of huge yellow sunflowers. All his costuming is unique in design and brilliant in coloring, and his swift-footed chorus forms a bright, moving spot on the stage.

HIGHWAY BIDS
WILL BE ASKEDCounty Commissioners
Plan to Advertise
Many Projects.

It has been officially announced at the county commissioners' meeting to advertise for bids on or about February 1st for the grading and surfacing of three road projects as proposed in the road construction program suggested by the board last year, and as a part of the improvement measures covered by the $950,000 bond issue approved at the November election.

One of the first roads to be improved with a concrete service is the North Georgetown-Valley road, and for a distance of 2.65 miles. This road has been estimated to cost $109,000. The second job to be advertised will be the improvement of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road from the West-Knox township line northward to North Georgetown, a distance of 2.08 miles. This work has been estimated to cost $60,000.

Bids will also be sought for the grading and constructing of drainage structures on that part of I. C. H. No. 502 or the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from the sub station on the Y. & O. railroad northward and westward to Apple's corners where the road will connect with the Lincoln highway. The distance to be graded has been placed at 3.52 miles, and the cost of this part of the final contract has been estimated at $60,000.

The county commissioners have also approved plans and have forwarded them to the state highway department at Columbus for the surfacing of that section of I. C. H. No. 381, the Wellsville-Salineville road and known as the "Salineville section." This half mile piece of road is within the corporate limits of the village of Salineville, and is the only section between the two terminals not now surfaced, but which is "out of the mud" because of being cindered.

It is expected the state highway department will include this contract in the February letting, as it is proposed to have the road surfaced early in May if possible. On account of the short haul for materials, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk is of the opinion that the surfacing of this section should be finished within four weeks after the first concrete has been poured.

Plans for the improvement of section D-1 of I. C. H. No. 502 from Middleton road to the Mahoning-Columbiana county line have also been approved by the commissioners and forwarded to the department at Columbus. This stretch of over four miles will be graded and surfaced this year, and the job will also be included in the February letting.

The commissioners have been officially informed that the state highway department will maintain the present cinder section of the Lisbon-Elkton road, for a distance of about two miles. The location of this road eastward from Elkton has not been determined by the state highway department, although a public hearing was held on this project several months ago, with W. C. Fawcett, state locating engineer as examiner.

An agreement has been entered into between the county commissioners and the state highway department whereby by state and county funds are to be used in the construction of that section of I. C. H. No. 12, or the Benton road out of Salem to the Mahoning county line.

The county commissioners have also an agreement with the state whereby the county has agreed to finance and build the county portion of the Canfield-Columbiana road in this county, a distance of about 600 feet.

Plans for the improvement of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from the East Liverpool city limits north have not yet been completed by Surveyor Kirk.

She Could Never Have Done It With Piles!

Bless the American girl who has glorified all the sports! She makes a pretty picture in the water, and is a plucky swimmer, too. Piles are unthinkable for active women. If you have them, you ought to know this simple thing to do!

At any hour or moment that you have the least distress or discomfort from piles, use a single Pape's Diapensin suppository—and go happy on your way. The worst hemorrhoids, even the itching and badly protruding piles respond to the soothing suppository applied in perfect privacy. But bear the name in mind: Pape's is the only one he will sell his patrons. Pape's is the only one who suffers another single half-hour with painful piles!

Sixty cents the box, the world around. But for proof, a free box plainly wrapped will be sent those who write Pape's Drug Co., 200 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FIGHT COST OF STREET JOB

Injunctions Against Assessment Collection Granted.

Judge James G. Moore, of common pleas court at Lisbon, granted temporary injunctions to six property holders, restraining the city of East Liverpool from the collection of certain street improvement assessments. The property holders are: Elizabeth J. Herbert, Vida N. Mackall, Mary Alice Buckley, Leroy Rinehart, R. J. Marshall and Barbara Berg. The petitions were filed by Attorney Ben L. Bennett. The property, located in Fifth street, Jefferson street and East End, is involved in the litigations. The last case to be filed is that for Mrs. Herbert, who owns property in Fifth street. She charges that no improvement notice was served upon her, and that the city therefore is not entitled to the collection of the assessments. No date has been set for a hearing.

Correct weight can be yours

I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure.
Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?
And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?
Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.
You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood.
S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

WHY PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND SAN-GRINA TO FAT PEOPLE

FRENCH DISCOVERY IS ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS AND WORKS WONDERS

"If I had not carefully analyzed, tested and seen my own sister reduce and improve her health with SAN-GRINA," says Dr. McAlpine, "I would not be recommending it to my patients today. Dr. Jacoby writes: 'My wife has about finished the SAN-GRINA you sent her, and I wish you could see the wonderful change in her appearance. She never felt better in all her life.' 'I have used SAN-GRINA for my wife,' says Dr. Harris, 'and now recommend it to my fat patients.'"

"I recommended SAN-GRINA to my mother," says Dr. Nabone, "because I knew, after working at the Bureau for years, it was absolutely harmless to the health and positive in results. It is the only I know of to a good figure and perfect health."

REDUCE 65 POUNDS

"I weighed 200 pounds," writes Mrs. M. D. Paquand of Worcester, "and lost 65 pounds. I would like to have another box of SAN-GRINA." Up to now physicians have rarely advised anything to reduce outside of diets or exercises (both strenuous and inconvenient) because they knew of nothing HARMLESS and EFFECTIVE, but today, in recommending SAN-GRINA, a doctor feels that it is something with real merit, so entirely different from all the advertised fat reducers, that he does not hesitate to advise its use even to his own family. Prominent medical men, such as Dr. Endolph, former Health Commissioner, endorse SAN-GRINA AS THE ONLY SAFE, positive and quick way to slenderness he knows of. SAN-GRINA is the formula of a French physician. It is put up in a small, convenient tablet, to be taken three times a day. Although only recently introduced in America, SAN-GRINA is now recognized as the most effective treatment for fat people, because:

→ IT HAS REDUCED MOST OBSTINATE CASES OF OBESITY.
→ IT DOES AWAY WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE, PUFFING, HEADACHES, TIRED FEELING, AND THE FAT MAN OR WOMAN WHO TAKES SAN-GRINA ONCE MORE ENJOYS LIFE.
→ IT IS ENTIRELY DIFFERENT FROM ANYTHING EVER OFFERED.
→ IT IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS.
NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC: Beware of worthless imitations. SAN-GRINA is sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded. Go to your druggist to day, be sure to ASK FOR AND GET SAN-GRINA. Sold at all good drug or department stores or you can send direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, New York City.

SUPPORTS FAMILY, EARNS EDUCATION

Pluck of Texas Girl From Age of Twelve Shown in Life Story.

Belton, Texas.—Ten years ago Opal Cade's father, a Texas carpenter-contractor, suffered a serious physical breakdown. Before he had recovered from that his hipbone was broken and he was made a cripple for life. Almost a year he lay in a plaster paris cast and for a long while he was not able to walk, even on crutches.

During all the long months of his illness prior to his almost fatal injury, and throughout the years that have followed, the Cade family have had to make out as best they could. For Mr. Cade was not a wealthy man, and the family was ill prepared for the adversity which befell them. The four children, Opal, Macel, Houston and Elder, were all young, and their mother had to divide her time between her housework, her care for her brood, and her care for her stricken husband.

Wanted Education.

Mrs. Cade was anxious that her children go to school, and she told to that end, but when Opal was twelve it seemed that she could be spared no longer. She, with her two younger brothers, had been attending a country school five miles southeast of Belton, in Bell county, where they lived.

She was a girl, but she was the eldest, strong and capable for her years, so she went to work in the fields.

It seemed that from the very start Opal was destined to be the mainstay of her family. Overtaxing her strength, perhaps, in her efforts to meet the demands made upon her, Mrs. Cade fell ill. She was not confined to her bed all the time but her health became so poor that she was forced to leave more and more of the housework and the work about the farm home, to Opal.

When Opal was thirteen her sister Hildy was born. The baby was ill a great deal and frequently Opal found it necessary to sit up most of the night caring for her, or for her mother, or Mr. Cade. But regardless of how long or strenuous the vigil had been, or how sleepy she was, Opal knew that she must be at work the next day, and when the day came she went.

The winter her father was forced to lie helpless in the plaster cast proved an extremely hard one for the Cade family. The next spring the children earned money by chopping cotton, and by this time Opal could hold her place beside the best of them.

The next winter the family fared better. With the money the children had earned picking cotton and that they had received from the cotton they sold, they paid their debts and began to make plans for the next year.

The next spring, or when she was only fourteen years old, she undertook the cultivation of a whole 75-acre farm.

Now a Student.

That was four years ago. Opal is now eighteen and a student in Baylor academy and she is showing the same energetic determination in her fight to win an education that she did in her fight to wrest a living for herself and her loved ones out of the stumpy soil.

Her entrance upon her life as a student was in every way as dramatic and unusual as her experience on the farm. Interested friends had told her that at Baylor College for Women, in Belton, any girl with pluck and determination could win an education even though without money.

"That's that's where I am going," she said.

Last August she appeared on the campus, announced unblushingly that she did not have enough money to buy a railroad ticket back home, only 15 miles away, and put in her bid for the first job that presented itself—any kind of a job that would allow her to come to school.

She got a job as a dishwasher. Today she is a full-fledged student, and she vows that she will never miss a day until she leaves the campus with a sheepskin under her arm.

For years Baylor college has been noted for the system, begun under the direction of Mrs. Elli Moore Townsend, whereby deserving girls can come and make their way, regardless of handicaps, almost, but at no time has there ever come a girl who has created a profounder impression upon the student body and the college authorities than Opal Cade.

As is to be expected, there are many more applicants than there are possible openings. Heroic efforts are made to help every deserving girl who comes, but the college cannot hope to meet every need. All of the girls, in what is known as the cottage home system, earn a part of their expenses by a self-help or "duty" arrangement, but only a very few of them are able to earn even the greater part of their expenses.

Found Every Place Filled.

When Opal Cade came and explained her case to the college authorities she was told that every place had been filled. The hostess in charge of placement was struck by Opal's enthusiasm and earnestness, and listened with deep sympathy to her story, but to have given her what she needed would have meant that some other girl must be deprived of a chance. So

Opal was regretfully told that there was no opening.

Pausing long enough to thank the hostess for her courtesy, she hastened to Mrs. Ella Y. Ely, one of the committee in charge of the cottage home system, whom she had met since her arrival. To Mrs. Ely she poured out her whole story all over again. And it was evident that instead of sending her back to the farm in discouragement this first disappointment had merely strengthened her determination.

"I am going to stay here if I have to sleep on one of the campus benches," Opal said.

She had arrived in August during one of the short between-term vacation periods. Mrs. Ely was then in the midst of a thorough housecleaning. Ely Pepper hall was being prepared for the girls who were to return within a few days to take up their summer's work.

"You see what we are doing," Mrs. Ely said. "Here's a broom and a dust rag and there's a floor mop down the hall. Gather them up and come with me. You may help me here until we have finished our housecleaning. Maybe by that time something will turn up."

Opal did as she was bidden; did it with a vengeance.

And something did turn up. Mrs. Ely found that she could give Opal a six-hour sweeping duty for the five weeks' term, but she could promise nothing after that.

At the end of the five weeks' term the ambitious girl was on the edge of a nervous breakdown, partly because she was unaccustomed to being indoors as much as her new tasks required, and partly because she was worried so much for fear that she would be unable to stay for the fall session. At length she was sent to the hospital for two days, and when she came out she was twelve hours behind with her work. The college physician said that she should rest between terms, but, as Opal put it, she "had to catch up."

So she worked twelve hours a day for two days.

Gets Her Chance.

But no guarantee of work for the fall term came. It seemed that nothing would happen. Opal was sent away from the Ely-Pepper hall and out into the town of Belton to the home of Mrs. Ely's sister. It seemed that, try as her friends might, nothing could be done to assure her schooling for the fall term. Her spirits at the lowest possible ebb, Opal was preparing to make the best of the situation when she received a message from the placement hostess to come to her office.

"One of the girls who was to wait tables in the Luther hall dining room has found that she cannot come," the hostess said. "It is a six-hour duty, two every morning, two at noon and two at night. Do you want it?"

She wanted it so much that she almost hugged the hostess. And tradition has it that she actually did go out of that office singing as she went.

Opal is a familiar figure in the dining room. She wears the same smile she must have worn when her corn was in tassel and everything was going well at the farm. Perhaps the smile is even broader than it was then. If it isn't there is every reason for it to be. She has made friends, not only of her classmates, many of whom doubtless owe their better grades as much to knowledge of the fact that if they do not "hustle" she will excel them, as to their willful studiousness, but also of the girls whose food she serves.

But even in her present happiness, which, after all, would not constitute happiness for many with less pluck than she, Opal realizes that the road before her is a long one, and that all her problems are not solved. She says that she expects some day to be a foreign missionary, but right now her chief concerns are her work and her studies. She is particularly interested in mathematics and her grades in this subject are particularly good, but she is taking everything required of one who expects to receive the A. B. degree.

"I am going to have that degree some day," she will tell you smilingly, confidently. "I am going to do more than that. I am going to put my little sister through college, too."—New York World.

"Adobe" Comes Back

as Building Material

Los Angeles, Cal.—The sun-dried brick is coming back into popular favor in southern California as a material for building purposes.

"Adobe" was used by Franciscan fathers in the building of their missions and later many homes and commercial structures were erected with these rudely made bricks.

As the years wore on, however, adobe fell into desuetude.

"Mission style" homes, churches and business blocks long have been popular in southern California, but ordinarily these have been built of brick or frame with a coating of stucco.

Lately, however, the old custom has been revived, and everywhere in southern California modern small homes and ranch houses are being built of adobe. In Los Angeles a number of exclusive residences, whose owners could well afford the most expensive of materials, have been fashioned of adobe.

Hornsby Leads National In Total Bases and Runs Batted In

Tops League Sluggers Sixth Straight Time

Registers His Highest Average, .756, Since Assuming Leadership in 1920; Wright, Barnhart, Traynor and Cuyler, of Pirates, Bat in Total of 443 Runs, More Than Half Club's Tallies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Further honors today were accorded the man to whom honors are fast becoming a formality. With the release of official miscellaneous averages by the National League, Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis Cardinal ace, resumed his place on the pedestal, leading his league in slugging, total bases on hits and runs batted in.

It was the sixth straight time Hornsby had topped the league in slugging, and to make the occasion more memorable, he registered his highest average in this respect, .756. This figure is arrived at by dividing the total bases by the number of times at bat. Hornsby assumed the leadership in slugging in 1920 and has yet to relinquish it, his yearly marks being .559, .639, .722, .627, .696 and .756.

In leading the way in total bases, with 381, Hornsby was in front in this department for the fifth time in the last six years. In leading in runs batted in, with 143, he achieved his fourth success since 1920.

There were other leaders and some of them were not so proud of it. Charles Hartnett, of the Chicago Cubs, for instance, struck out the most number of times, 77, and Eddie Roush, of Cincinnati, was caught stealing more often than any player, 20 times.

Jack Fournier, of Brooklyn, received the most passes, 86, and John "Stuffy" McInnes, of Pittsburgh, fanned the least number of times, once in all. Hazen Cuyler, his team mate, was hit by pitched balls 13 times and gained the doubtful distinction of leading his league in this respect.

Nine men batted home 100 runs or more, the list including Hornsby, 143; Fournier, 130; Jim Bottomley, St. Louis, 128; Glenn Wright, Pittsburgh, 121; Clyde Barnhart, Pittsburgh, 114; Emil Meusel, New York, 111; Harold Traynor, Pittsburgh, 106; Zach Wheat, Brooklyn, 103; Earl Cuyler, 102. The four Pirates mentioned, Wright, Barnhart, Traynor and Cuyler, batted home a total of 443 runs, more than half of the tallies scored by the entire club.

CUB PLAYERS LIKE M'CARTHY

New Pilot is Hard-boiled But a Good Fellow.

"He's a tough egg, but a good fellow." This is what baseball men think of Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs. Their expression may not meet with the approval of sticklers of the English language, but what they mean is clearly understood by everyone. Joe has the good will of players and officials and the backing of years of experience.

The new pilot is a hard-boiled, square-jawed determined person. When he says something he means it. Despite these forceful qualities, he is a kind, understanding man who knows how to handle players and what to do in times of difficulty. That was the secret of his success in Louisville; that, and the ability to teach recruits how to play baseball. Down in Louisville they are watching Joe. They think he will show followers of the major circuit that McGraw isn't the only strategist in baseball.

With this kind of a leader the Cubs should do something this summer. Of course McCarthy can't produce a winner unless he has the foundation, but club officials firmly believe they have the foundation now. The outfield has promise, the pitching staff has been reinforced, the catching staff is no weaker and more infielders have been added to the list.

There is no question that McCarthy will have a much better hitting team than his predecessors directed. By acquiring Hack Wilson, O'Doul and Scott, the outfield has been made considerably more powerful. There was the weakness last year. The men were not bad fly chasers, but when it came to swatting the ball they fell down.

Both McCarthy and Veeck will attend the minor league meetings at Catalina Island January 12, 13 and 14. They will be looking for more material. That they are seeking a few men is certain, but whether they will be successful is a question. Veeck, however, says he will be hunting ivory as long as there is ivory to hunt.

LEAGUE GAMES AT ST. STEPHENS

Tonight's games in the Sunday school case circuit will be staged on the St. Stephen's court.

The St. Stephen's five will clash with the Methodists in the main attraction. The Juniors will play the Presbyterian Juniors in the preliminary. McConville will referee.

Boxing Pilot's Press Jargon Packs Punch

"He is not just big—he is the paprika of petrifying punches, rougher than the English channel, tougher as a tank and gamier than Nathan Hale. He takes it like an old time bartender, bangs them until they bark like a bull weevil and when he whams them they stay whamed."

No, this is not a case for the doctor. These terrifying words are of a southern boxer's manager telling how good his scrapper is.

Another member of this manager's stable is supposed to measure up to these standards.

"He's so speedy he couldn't get hit in a cloudburst and loves abuse like a shiek likes Stacomb. He just slaps the taste right out of their mouth and massages their maps till they meow like a muskrat."

Still another boxer of the same stable is credited with these possibilities:

"He is faster than a punch-drunk pug, as cold-blooded as a Klondyke Christmas, can take more punishment than a Ford; a buff on the nose makes him happier than an undertaker at a bootleggers' picnic; he paws them till they purr like puss in a pantry; he never kissed the canvas and no one ever heard the referee chortle his cheerless chant over him."

Golf Rulers Consider Ball Will Act to Regulate Weight and Size.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The United States Golf association will take action in regard to the ball at the annual meeting here next Saturday. At the last annual meeting, in New York, William C. Fownes, Jr., chairman of the committee on implements and the ball and now nominee for president, stated that his committee was convinced that a ball not less than 1.68 inches in diameter nor more than 1.55 ounces in weight would meet all requirements.

Inasmuch as the British committee had not been able to reach a conclusion, Fownes said, his committee recommended that final decision in the matter be postponed until the United States Golf association met in January, 1926. It has been the aim of the United States Golf association, Fownes said, to bring about international accord, if possible, before inaugurating any reforms.

SPORTSMEN TO NAME OFFICERS

Local Fish and Game Branch Meeting Tonight.

Election of officers will occupy the attention of members of the East Liverpool branch of the county fish and game protective association at their meeting tonight in the Fowler building.

In addition to naming officers of the local branch, the sportsmen will also elect delegates to the governing board. This organization is scheduled to convene in Lisbon next week for its annual election also.

J. S. Lambing is president of the East Liverpool branch at the present time. Walt McClelland is vice president; Brady White, secretary-treasurer.

John L. King, of Salem, is head of the county organization. Sweitzer, of East Palestine, is its vice president and J. C. Miller, of East Liverpool, the secretary-treasurer.

Must Get Licenses.

Fond disciples of Isaac Walton who would take junior or other youthful hopes with them on fishing excursions in Pennsylvania waters this year should know that a change has been made in the code which requires all fishermen 16 years of age or older to equip themselves with a license. The reduction of the age limit from 18 to 16 years is one of the most important changes in the new code. Other changes include restriction of fishing devices, the elimination of permits for special devices, the changing of daily limits on certain catches and the making of non-resident fishermen's license reciprocal with other states and fixing the minimum of this license fee at $2.50.

Prefers to Meet Champ Rather Than Flowers

PITTSBURGH—It may be just plain "apple sauce" or an honest confession which prompts Harry Greb to say that he would rather meet Paul Berlenbach, the light heavyweight champion, than battle Tiger Flowers. But whatever it is here's what the middleweight champ has to say: "Flowers gave me one of my hardest fights and he's a better fighter than a lot of people give him credit for being. If he's as good now as the day I met him in Fremont, O., 18 months ago then I am frank in stating that I fear him more than I would if it were Paul Berlenbach I was scheduled to fight."

Schaefer Sets New Cue Record In Regaining Billiard Crown

Has Average of 93.75 for the 16 Innings it Took to Tounce Edouard Horemans, Belgian Ace.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—"Young Jake" Schaefer today again has possession of the world's 18.2 ball-line billiard crown.

With a grand average of 93.75 for the sixteen innings Schaefer took to tounce Edouard Horemans, the Belgian cue ace, a new record was set up in championship billiard play. The final score for the three blocks was 1,500 to 890.

It was a different Schaefer from the man Horemans defeated recently. From the start on Monday until he had accumulated 1,500 caroms at the end of the third block, Schaefer outplayed his rival. This feat is also heightened by the fact that Horemans, himself, played far better billiards than the average. But the Belgian wasn't in the same class with Schaefer this match.

Great in the second block on Tuesday, Schaefer was even greater in the final block yesterday. His deftness and generalship enabled him to give a brilliant exhibition.

While Horemans' grand average was 55.63 against Schaefer's record smashing, the Belgian made two high runs during the match of 243 and 231. Schaefer's highest run was 210.

Schaefer will go to New York today, and Horemans leaves tomorrow on an exhibition tour.

Summary of the third block, together with the grand totals:

Yesterday's Score:
Schaefer 21, 140, 123, 7, 190, 33—500.
Horemans—24, 14, 3, 18, 231—320.

X—Schaefer continuing from unfinished run of 123.

Averages—Schaefer, 83.3; Horemans, 61.

High Run—Schaefer, 190; Horemans, 231.

Grand Summary:
Final Score—Schaefer, 1,500; Horemans, 890.

Grand Average—Schaefer, 93.75; Horemans, 55.63.

High Run for Match—Schaefer, 210; Horemans, 243.

LISBON QUINT GETS DECISION OVER POTTERS

Independents Outlast Collegians in 32-22 Contest.

PLAYING their first game following the holidays, or, in fact, since the visit of Franklin & Marshall Academy here, the East Liverpool Collegians tumbled before the Lisbon Independents, 32-22, last night on the Rollaway rink, at Lisbon.

Lack of practice sessions were felt by the Collegians at the tail end of the third quarter. Until that time, the Ceramic City delegation was leading. After that they trailed and finally finished second to the county seater.

The Lisbon cage pilot made numerous substitutions in the third and fourth periods and the constant stream of fresh material into the contest counted heavily against the potters who, fagged out as they faced the home stretch, were unable to keep steady.

Playing against a combination consisting of Richardson and Rush on the forwards; Mefort at center, and Hum and Egan at guards, the locals ran up a 5-1 score at the end of the first quarter. They were still leading, 11 to 7 at the half. But their advantage gradually dwindled away, until at the close of the third period, they found themselves on the short end of the tally. Wain and Todd played the forwards for the Collegians, with Joe Canne at center and Crawford and Anderson at guards.

The Collegians are slated to play the Canton Jack Art Jewellers on Wednesday, January 13, at Canton, in a preliminary to the game between the Canton Professionals and the Boston American Basketball league team.

In February the Jack Arts will be brought to this city for a return engagement.

Power Passers to Face Millers

The Power basketball team will open its post-holiday schedule on Friday night with the fast Miller Bros. quint, of Columbiana, on the M. E. church court here.

The Columbiana outfit needs little introduction to fans of the vicinity. The roster shows such ex-high school and former college stars as Graham, "Boots" Hawkins, Kyser, Kneasel and several others of like calibre.

The Power passers have gotten off to a good start, winning eight games out of nine played. They make up one of the leading independent cage teams of the district, with such well known players on the job as E. Rockhold, P. Jester, C. Stuart, E. Bucher, W. Ashbaugh, O. Cunningham, H. Dickey, A. Mensforth and E. Cochran.

$4.95EAST END STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Forman Lincicome Discusses Need of Church in Talk.

Declaring that the great need of the church at present was more Pentecostal fire, Evangelist Forman Lincicome spoke to large crowd last night at the revival services in the Oakland Free Methodist church.

His sermon, in part, follows: "The temperature of the church and the world is too much alike. We need to be melted up and thawed out. God never intended the church should be a refrigerator in which to preserve perishable piety, but intended it should be an incubator in which to hatch out young converts."

"Some churches pack their pastors in an ice house and then criticize him because he does not sweat in a Montana blizzard. A red hot cannon ball thrown into an ice house must part with its heat in melting the ice. My prayer is that God will set the churches of East Liverpool on fire. Some of them would make a mighty big blaze, for they are so very dry."

His subject tonight will be: "A Model Young Man." The meetings will close Sunday, January 17.

CHURCH OF CHRIST MEETS CONTINUE

Another large audience was present at the revival services last evening at the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ. Rev. B. R. Johnson, pastor of the First Church of Christ, spoke on the subject, "The Power of Repentance." His subject tonight will be: "Must We Confess?"

Choir Rehearsal.

Choir of the Second Presbyterian church will hold rehearsal this evening in the church. Miss Ethel Peterson is the leader.

Class Party Tonight.

Covered party will be held tonight by class No. 13 of the Second Presbyterian church in the social rooms of the church.

Lodge Meets Tonight.

Officers will be installed this evening at the regular meeting of Pennsylvania lodge No. 880, Odd Fellows, to be held in the Hill building, Mulberry street.

Special Meets Planned. Evangelistic services will begin at an early date in the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, of which Rev. W. C. Stokes is pastor.

BLIZZARD STRIKES HOME
 Coughs and colds are a natural sequence to an unexpected blizzard, and should be treated promptly to offset complications. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a pleasant and effective remedy for coughs and colds. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency. "The children and I had colds and the first dose of Foley's Honey and Tar helped us right away," writes Mrs. Mather, Richmond, Ohio. Foley's Honey and Tar is a good cough remedy for the whole family. It contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.

Near Tragedy Marks Filming of "White Desert," Here Today

Ever present dangers and near tragedies marked the filming of "The White Desert," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Reginald Barker, which is now showing at the American theater today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The picture was filmed in the blizzard swept snow sheds of the Continental Divide in Colorado. Members of the cast and the technical staff of the Barker company were exposed to hardships and dangers at every turn. Percy Hilburn, cameraman, and his assistant, Wallace Chevington, on one occasion literally had a speaking acquaintance with death. The company was working in a howling blizzard and the cameramen had their cameras facing an oncoming snow plow on the front of a train. The engineer operating the train misunderstood the signals and in the blizzard he was unable to hear the shouts of warning.

For Head Colds

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to sniff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

Wages of Sin.
A $10,000,000 Train.
More Dictators.
Still Killing Indians.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of the Review-Tribune.)
Copyright, 1925.

The wages of sin is death, or, at least, much trouble. Stanford White was killed long ago, his problems quickly solved by a young man from Pittsburgh.

Now, Thaw's wife, for whom White was killed, drinks eight ounces of a poisonous mixture to kill herself. Clergymen will find in this a good text for a sermon that will not put the congregation to sleep.

Some "radical" clergymen might even engage Evelyn Thaw to appear in his church as a living text or "sad example," if she survives.

Henry Ward Beecher, in his Brooklyn pulpit, sold a mulatto girl at auction in old slavery days to emphasize a sermon against slavery.

Make a good mouse trap and, as you know, the world will wear out a path to your door. Run a railroad well and your path across the continent will also be well used. The Twentieth Century, New York Central train, in seven sections one way and six the other recently, its managers proudly announce that they took in on that one train $10,000,000 last year.

It costs more to go from New York to Chicago now comfortably than it did to go from New York to Liverpool on the fine old steamship Spain, first class, years ago. The flying machine will correct that. Men now of middle age will live to read this.

"Chicago to New York in three hours, round trip $25."

The little band of dictators is growing. Now Greece has hers in the person of General Pangalos. He says he had to become a military dictator, and now issues a proclamation.

A war that was to make the world "safe for democracy" has thus far established dictatorships in Spain, Italy, Turkey and Greece. You never can sure what a war will do once it starts.

Four white men are accused of forming a murder ring, that already has to its credit the deaths of 20 Osage Indians. Oil had made them rich, and in 1925, as in old Puritan days, it seemed to Christian white men wrong for Indians to have property. They killed them then, and they kill them now. But now is illegal, and the grand jury will see about that.

Water white men don't murder Indians. They wait until the Indians get the money, then go to them with whisky, leave the whisky behind and come back with the money.

France thought the Riffs had given up fighting, at least until better weather. But the Riffs showed signs of life, not yet convinced that undying courage on the ground has little chance against poison gas and TNT in the air. So the French sent a few bombers, "dixie low." They dropped bombs and report that things are peaceful again.

If the Riffs want to fight somebody, they ought to fight the United States. Against us they would have an even chance, since we have few flying machines, and those that we have don't fly much.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, introduced by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., to a gathering of ladies, says the first thing we need is "an arbitration agreement."

STEEL COMPANY WILL EXPEND $2,000,000 IN 1926 PROGRAM

Plans Erection of New Mill and Cindering Plant.

500 MORE JOBS

Four Additional Furnaces Increase Capacity 50 Per Cent.

The Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company of Midland today announced plans for an expansion program, costing approximately $2,000,000, which will be undertaken during 1926.

Erect Cindering Plant.

The improvements call for the erection of a new mill, containing four furnaces, and a cindering plant, according to an announcement by R. M. Keeney, general superintendent. The new mill will increase the capacity of the Midland plant 50 per cent and will mean the employment of approximately 500 additional workers, many of them skilled employees.

Work on the new cindering plant, which is being erected adjoining the present mill in the western end of the steel town, is already under way. Construction of the new mill will be started within the next 30 days and will be ready for operation within nine months.

The improvements are being supervised by plant engineers and executives.

Ohioan Dead, Woman Is Dying as Result Of Lovers' Quarrel

TOLEDO, Jan. 7.—Roy Austin, 42, is dead, and Katherine Sarka, 30, is lying at the point of death at St. Vincent's hospital today as a result of a lovers' quarrel, when Austin shot the woman and then committed suicide. The shooting took place at the rooming house of the woman in Putnam. Austin wanted her to go out with him. They quarreled. He pulled a gun and shot her twice through the breast as she fled, then turned the gun on himself, firing one shot through the temple. He died instantly.

FAMILY ABSENT AS HOME BURNS

A three-room frame dwelling and its contents on Henry avenue, Gardenale, owned and occupied by Charles E. Brown, were destroyed by fire about 5:30 o'clock this morning, entailing a loss estimated at $2,500, partially covered by insurance.

The origin of the blaze has not been determined. The house was unoccupied for the night, Mr. and Mrs. Brown visiting with Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, of Woodbine street. The fire was discovered by Mrs. John Ehlenbach of Pleasant Heights.

The fire department was not called.

CHESTER, Ill., Jan. 7.—Further than to say "that's my brother, Robert," Russell Scott, who thrice skirted the gallows in the Joseph Maurer murder case, refused to add to his identification today of a picture of "John G. Redding" as his brother. Scott was shown a newspaper containing the picture of the man held in California and who had been identified there as Robert Scott, sought for two years as the slayer of Maurer in Chicago.

After making the identification, Russell resumed the clam-like silence he has maintained in the asylum here. When questioned he waved interviews aside with the remark "that is all I have to say."

Steamers Operate On Ohio River as Channel Ice Breaks

The Ohio river was open to navigation today for the first time in eight days, during which the surface was frozen.

The ice, which virtually covered the river from bank to bank from Wheeling into Pittsburgh, broke up yesterday afternoon. Floes from the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers are expected to pass out tomorrow.

The first boat to pass through the locks at Dam No. 8 this morning was the dredger, Virginia, enroute to Weirton where the Weirton Steamship company is constructing large docks.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT KERR AS COUNCIL BEGINS WORK

Re-election of Arthur Shone as Clerk Virtually Agreed Upon at Informal Session.

THURSDAY TO BE MEETING NIGHT

Solicitor Hoover, Auditor McGraw and Service-Safety Director-Designate Moore Attend.

With the appointment of committees the city solons held their first meeting in the office of City Auditor William McGraw at the city hall last night. Inasmuch as several members had not filed their bonds, the session was informal gathering. The initial business session has been called for Friday evening.

Committee appointments announced by Council President N. P. Kerr are: Finance—Thomas Farrall, George Hughes and Edgar Heddlston.

Ordinance—George Hughes, Clyde Goodball and Thomas Farrall.

Franchise—Edgar Heddlston, Thomas Farrall and Marion Poole.

Claims—O. J. Herrington, Charles Hayes and Clyde Goodball.

Rules—Clyde Goodball, Edgar Heddlston and Marion Poole.

Streets—Charles Hayes, O. J. Herrington and Marion Poole.

Meetings in Courtroom.

While final decision as to the selection of a council clerk will not be made until Friday night, the re-election of Arthur Shone for two years was virtually agreed upon. The new president problem lies between Charles Hayes and Thomas Farrall, the only old members of the municipal legislative body.

The solons voted to change their meeting nights from the second and fourth Fridays to the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. This change will be embodied in the report of the rules committee.

The council reviewed briefly the city's finances, but inasmuch as no word has been received from Lisbon as to the tax apportionment, no consideration was given budget legislation.

Other matters which will face the solons during the next two years were discussed.

Council will meet in the municipal courtroom, Fourth and Market streets, in the future. All council chamber furniture at the city hall has been moved to the court building.

Other city officials who attended last night's meeting were: Solicitor Hoover and Auditor McGraw, John W. Moore, who assumes the post of service-safety director on January 15, under Mayor Ralph Benedum, also listened in on the proceedings.

One Killed, Several Injured in Blast In Jersey City

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 7.—One man was killed and several injured in an explosion at the L. O. Koven foundry, here today.

Three ambulances were called to the scene.

The blast occurred in the power house of the foundry, which is used for the manufacture of boilers.

Swims in Ice Water for 10 Hours.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Joseph L. Higbie, 27, purchasing agent for the Bethlehem Steel company was picked up by a tugboat after keeping afloat in the icy waters of New York bay for 10 hours. A misstep on a steamer's ladder started Higbie swimming.

Press Will "Listen In 'On Caucuses of City Councilmen

Newspapermen will be permitted to "listen in" at caucus sessions of the city solons for another two years at least.

Members of the municipal body at their informal meeting last night offered no objection to the plan of admitting press representatives to their star chamber sessions, which in the future will be held in the municipal court headquarters.

For several years reporters were barred from these meetings, but during the last year were admitted upon a divided vote of the legislators.

There was no objection to the proposal which was made by Council President Kerr.

MINERS' STRIKE SETTLEMENT IS BELIEVED NEAR

Anthracite Operators and Union on Road to Peace.

LEADERS SILENT

Lewis Proposal Would Send Men Back to Work.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The strike of 158,000 anthracite coal miners is on the road to a settlement, despite intimations that the miners-operators conference is on the verge of a break-up.

The actual peace plan, announced exclusively by International News Service late yesterday, is under consideration, and a definite agreement to end the strike, now in its fifth month, can be anticipated at any time, probably within the next few days.

It was predicted today, in a source fully informed and absolutely reliable, that it would take no more than three more meetings of miners and operators to reach the agreement—probably not that many.

TWO POLICEMEN AND TWO WOMEN AMONG ACCUSED IN CINCINNATI

Warrants Issued for Higher-ups in Moonshine Scandal.

NOVICE FREED

Millionaire Sought as Leader of Rum Organization.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 7.—A moonshine liquor ring of vast proportions, the largest since the one headed by George Remus, had been uncovered today by the federal authorities. So far 10 persons have been arrested, including two policemen and two women. These arrests are only preliminary to the round-up of higher-ups.

Other Policemen Suspected. It was intimated that several more policemen might be involved. A millionaire bootlegger, living in one of the cities on the Kentucky shore of the Ohio river, is said to be the leader of the ring. The ring, it is reported, had headquarters in Campbell county, Kentucky, and distributed from points in various parts of northern Kentucky and Cincinnati, turning out about 1,000 gallons of moonshine liquor a day. Tens of thousands of gallons of moonshine have found their way into Cincinnati and adjoining cities recently from this source.

Those arrested are: Albert Meyers, policeman of the Seventh district; Homer Moreland, sub-policeman of the First district; Joseph Matz, cafe owner on Reading road, Carlisle avenue and Vine street; Clarence Johnson, Covington, Ky., merchant broker; Mrs. Helen Scheld, of Dayton, Ky.; Mrs. Anna Hayes, of Dayton, Ky.; William T. Bunnell, of Dayton, Ky., and Wade, Raymond and Garth Trible, caretakers at the Terrace Inn.

Prisoners Questioned. After being questioned by United States District Attorney Haveth E. Mau, all those arrested, except Moreland and Garth, were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. Moreland was allowed to go home but has to report in the federal building. It was said that he was a novice and was dragged into the affair by others. Garth Trible had no part in the conspiracy, but had been included in the blanket warrant.

Johnson and Matz were held in $20,000 bail bond each, Meyers in $10,000 and the others in $3,000.

HANLEY RULES ON RUM CHARGE

Verne Carroll Fined $100 by Municipal Judge.

Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley heard his first prohibition law case late yesterday afternoon, when Verne Carroll, proprietor of a Dresden avenue restaurant, faced him upon charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor.

Carroll was arrested by Patrolman Norman McFarland and Turnkey William Cline after the police found two half-pint bottles, partly filled with whiskey in his place of business. Several empty bottles were also located, police said.

The prisoner in pleading guilty, declared that "business was bad" and that he was selling liquor to make his expenses. He was fined $100 and costs, part of which was paid at once and the remainder today.

RUSS CLING TO FEAST OF OLD CHRISTMAS

Gregorian Calendar Gives Peasants Two Celebrations.

EAT AND DRINK
January 7 is Date of Original Holiday.

MOSCOW — Christmas comes but once a year in every other country but Russia. Now, when Americans have picked the last turkey clean and made soup from his bones, the Russians are seating themselves to a second feast, thankful that the Soviet government changed the calendar and gave them two Christmases instead of one.

Officially, Russia adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1923, discarding the Julian, which had served the Orthodox Church since its foundation. The act lost the Russian people 13 days in the calendar. But millions of members of the church still cling to the old date, and since no Russian is averse to feasting as often as possible, the ma-

Georgia Woman Says Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup Restored Her Strength

One of the strongest statements ever given in favor of a medicine is that voluntarily made by Mrs. C. P. Autry, a prominent resident of Eliza, Ga., in telling of the benefits she had received through the use of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, the prescription that is accomplishing such remarkable results everywhere.

Mrs. Autry is proprietor of a mercantile business at Eliza and her reputation in the community is too well known for further comment. In a letter addressed recently to the Thacher Laboratories Mrs. Autry said:

"I am confident that Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup saved my life, for I was terribly run down and in such a miserable condition that I had almost given up all hope of ever getting on my feet again. But after taking Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup I have fully recovered my health and I wouldn't take anything on earth for the good this wonderful remedy has done me."

"I am so delighted with it that I unhesitatingly recommend it to all my friends, and many of them have taken it on my advice and have been greatly benefited by it."

All druggists are instructed to return the purchase price of the first bottle if Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup fails to bring relief.

This celebrated prescription is being featured in East Liverpool by Cernahan's Drug Co.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

FORTY-TWO.

In that moment Laurel Harwood's mind became a whirlpool; she was in terror. She had gotten up from the table, and it was only some subconscious power which stayed her impulse and prevented a scene. Noble looked up with wide eyes as she made her surprising rush to his side, and Louis was startled.

"Oh, Noble!" she exclaimed, with half-suppressed agitation.

He jumped up and caught her by the shoulder. "What's the matter, dear, are you ill? Are you fainting?"

"Louis, some brandy!"

Bewildered, she stared at him. "I thought—" Suddenly she realized that she had misunderstood, and had barely escaped making a fool of herself. She put her hand to her head. "Oh! For a moment I thought I was going to faint," she lied. Her face was red with embarrassment. She refused the brandy the butler proffered anxiously, and moved back to her chair.

"Perhaps I had better remain with you this evening," Noble suggested.

"No, no, dear. I'm all right now. I think Marion would like to go to the theater with me."

"Doesn't look as if she intends to come home today," Noble remarked. After a pause he added, "I suppose she is with her mother."

"If she doesn't come soon, I believe I'll ask Bernice, or Alice Kenwick."

"I haven't seen anything of Alice lately. Why haven't you had her here for dinner?"

Laurel avoided his eyes as she answered, "She has been very busy—school and everything, you know. . . . And Alice is a little queer about some things. She doesn't want to come and see me now because she's afraid people will think she is pushing in where she isn't wanted. She is—"

"Bully! I like the spirit. Perhaps if we were to go for her together some day, she would get over that."

His wife's eyes lighted. "That would be splendid." She was warmed.

"How sweet you are, dear! I've missed Alice so much."

"She's a nice girl. Make her come to dinner soon."

Laurel smiled appreciation. What had come over him. Until now Noble had given her the idea that he disliked Alice. She wondered what had made him change his mind.

Noble glanced at his watch. "Ten of eight. . . . You'd better hurry, if you're going to get some one else to go to the theater with you."

"And I suppose you are in a hurry, too?"

Something in her eyes made his glance fall. "Yes, dear, I am." They arose, and he offered his arm. "I—well, I may be in very late tonight, or possibly, not at all."

With his instructions to Louis regarding a change of clothing, in mind, she endeavored to appear no more than curious. "Why, dear, what are you going to do?"

"Well, it's like this," he began, as if feeling guilty. "I got into a poker game at the club last night, and it was an unusually tight game and everybody was enjoying it until I had to go. They laughed at me because I left early and kidded me about being chicken-pecked and all that. I—uh—"

Laurel patted him on the hand. "I understand, dearest." He was, she thought, just like a little boy with his confession.

"There's going to be a big game tonight, and it may last late—even until daylight, and—"

"Stay until it is finished." She halted him at the library door. "I'm sorry because of what I said, dear. I want you to enjoy yourself, and I don't want to tag along always. I understand that you don't want to appear, well, under the rule of my little finger—"

"Oh, it isn't that—"

"Never mind." She pressed a finger to his lips.

"I'm taking a suit along so that if the game lasts late, I won't have to come home in this attire. It doesn't take much to start people talking, you know."

"Yes, I DO know," she said.

Noble wondered momentarily whether her response was so emphatic.

"Run along now, dear," she said.

He did not release the hand he held. "I love you so! You're so sweet. Lie bent his lips down to her moist red lips and looked deeply into her eyes, great black pools of starry darkness. Her stiffness yielded to his caress, and she clung to him.

"I don't want to go," he murmured.

Laurel pulled herself free. "No, run along, dear, and have that good time."

"You talk as if you didn't want me to stay," he said, piqued.

"You know that I do—but you have already made my plans."

Her tone hurt. "You're getting even with me now—"

Perhaps this scene would have been much more lengthy but for Marion. They released each other at the sound of a voice in the hall calling Joseph.

"Do you really want me to go, dear?" Noble asked earnestly.

"You know, precious, that I would rather have you with me, or be with you—I'm always lonely without you—but I don't want you to deny yourself these enjoyable evenings with other men."

"I won't do this very often. . . ."

"I wish you wouldn't feel that you have to defend yourself."

Marion burst into the library. "Hello, everybody!"

"Your usual hour of arrival," her father observed. "And now I suppose you are going to rush out some place?"

"I'm sorry I wasn't here for dinner," she said, coming to him. "I haven't had any. However, I'm not going anywhere, so I suppose I can get Louis to find something for me. What did you have?"

Her father ignored the question. "Laurel would like you to go to the theater with her. I have seats for a box, but cannot go."

Laurel wished that Noble had let her make the invitation.

"Sure, I'll go."

Noble gave his wife's hand a squeeze. "Goodbye then, dear."

As she watched him leave with the bag Louis had waiting in the hall, Laurel's expression took on an intensity that would have puzzled Marion, had she noticed it. Their marriage life, Laurel suddenly realized, was entering a new phase. The honeymoon was over. He was thinking of his own pleasure first now. She understood the theater tickets and his sudden change in attitude toward Alice Kenwick. "Was he really going to play poker at the club all night? Remembrance of those powder marks upon his coat in New York—upon their honeymoon, crept into her mind. (To be continued)

In the next chapter: Mrs. Mary Harwood pays a call.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1926.

Economy In Baltimore

Baltimore's tax rate has fallen 16 per cent in two years. It is such a surprising condition for an American city that other communities want to know how in the world it was accomplished.

One of the means to this desirable end was the reduction of the number of employees operating the city's pay roll system from 134 to 23. With the larger force, it is said, it was usually 15 days from the time a city worker signed the roll before he received his money. At present that period is only two to four days. There appears to have been as much economy of time and effort here as of personnel and money.

A second means of economy has been the handling of city automobiles. Under a former system these cars were kept in scattered garages throughout the city. Garage hire came high, and joy-riding in public-owned cars was not unheard of. Today all city automobiles are kept in a central garage. They are used only for business, are returned promptly when city duties are performed, and their upkeep has been amazingly reduced.

Baltimore now stores its city supplies through the activities of only one bureau instead of 25, as formerly. Cost for such service has dropped from $92 per thousand to $35. This has saved $75,000 this year and is expected to save $175,000 next year. It has also released for other uses property worth $378,000.

A fourth, and most startling, means is the refusal of automobile licenses to city tax delinquents. This has put new habits into no less than 8,000 former tax-evaders.

By such simple arrangements the city of Baltimore finds itself possessed of a surplus of $2,500,000. Its costly borrowing ways seem to be over.

Won't similar economies work equally well anywhere?

Noise Absorbers

Our civilization is wonderfully convenient and useful, but noisy. Wherefore many seek quiet for ears and nerves in the simple life. Primitive hardships are endurable, they say, if primitive silence goes with them.

Now that may be unnecessary. Recent discoveries show the possibility of killing noise. We may have noise-absorbers just as we have shock-absorbers. We may put mufflers into our houses as we put them on our automobiles, and "look up a scream" as we look up a gas engine explosion. We may shut out a jazz band or a rattling trolley car as we shut out a blizzard.

This is proved in the "sound laboratory" of the federal bureau of standards at Washington. Genuinely sound-proof walls and partitions are now obtainable. They are not solid walls, either. In fact, they are precisely the opposite. For though air is the great conductor of sound, it is found that air layers or cells in solid matter kill sound. Noises simply get tangled up in the tiny air pockets of sugar-cane fiber, felt and other light, porous substances, when they would vibrate through solid steel or concrete. Build such stuff into the wall, or hang it on the wall, or plaster it on a part of the finishing, and the noise devil is baffled.

There is going to be a big demand for that sort of thing.

Foolish Fires

It has long been customary in sections of the South for farmers and cattle men to burn leaves and underbrush in the belief that burning over the range destroyed the cattle tick and improved the condition of the range. This custom has often led to the destruction of fences and farm buildings and has started a good many forest fires.

Now comes a report from the government experiment station at McNeill, Miss., stating that these range fires not only do no good but are a positive scourge to the timber country. They fail to wipe out the cattle tick, but they do kill carpet grass and other valuable plants, along with still more valuable timber.

Therefore the Arkansas Gazette asks every farmer of that state and of every southern state to make himself a volunteer fire warden, to stop burning over his own land and to help in checking the custom everywhere.

It is a warning that needs to be taken to heart by farmers and landowners in the North as well as the South, wherever the custom of burning out groves and underbrush exists.

Two Expense Items

America must be prepared to defend herself by force, as long as force rules the world. That is self-understood. It applies to armies and navies. It presupposes the maintenance of competent, modern defensive craft for sea and air.

Having granted that, it may be worth while to revert to one of the most striking cartoons of the time, appearing recently in the New York World, and recommended to the "attention of Mr. Taxpayer."

Uncle Sam stands thinking, with a sheet of paper in each hand. On one sheet is this item of national expense: "Cost of One Naval Airplane Carrier, $48,000,000." On the other is the item: "Cost of Delegation to Disarmament Conference, $75,000."

At a time when tax reduction is foremost in the public mind, no taxpayer will fail to get the force of that. Moralists, too, will find in it food for thought.

As if there weren't enough real estate available now, an expedition is going to start out in the spring to look for a new continent in the Arctic.

BESIDES THE POWERFUL KATRINKA'S LITTLE BROTHER
GEORGE WASHINGTON JOHNSON IS THE ONLY OTHER YOUNGSTER
THAT EVER 'MADE MCGUIRE PAUSE'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—There's a soul-chilling wrap to the loneliness many beautiful women in Manhattan endure. They are not those cast of common mould—the adventures looking for cheap flirtation. They are of good birth and respectability.

Yet you see them sitting alone in the cafe or at the play. There is no flaunting of cosmetic boldness. They dress smartly and simply. Only a single jewel may be displayed. All about are well-situated women known for their reckless extravagances and dissipation.

In a way it is one of New York's social gestures. The lady sits alone. The wanton seems overwhelmed with a succession of admirers. The town's beaux seem to be lured by a fluffing manner and lurid past. These lonely women have courage, resource and charm.

They will not indulge in the light and casual contacts of the boulevards and cafes which result in a wide if not constant circle of friends. They prefer to go it alone and of course in the end it results in stability of home and permanency of devotion.

In one of the boxes at a theatre recently sat a woman alone. She wore an admirable gown of black and there was a gallant poise to her head. During the play she brought three small notes to her. Finally with a helpless look she sprang to her feet and departed.

New York simply could not believe she wished to be alone, and yet it is told she came back from Europe widowed and wanted friends, but rather than meet them in haphazard fashion she had instead been here five weeks and had talked only to her hotel floor clerk and personal maid.

The chance acquaintance here often leads to sinister situations—blackmail and even murder. But these are not the things feared by beautiful and lonely women. They merely want to meet nice people in a nice way and to do this they must suffer very often a great loneliness.

Flirtations are largely geographical. Location makes the flirt. A strange man in a small town may inquire of a strange lady whether she is going and she will probably tell him frankly to the butcher shop. The same question on Broadway might result in a slap on the jaw and a whistle for a cop. Herding, it would seem, makes the male flirtations. Most flirts are arrested in the sardine-jammed subway trains.

A friend whose reputation is spotless lost his sense of direction one evening. It was on a deserted thoroughfare and a lone woman was approaching. He lifted his hat to inquire the way. She uttered a shrill scream for help and he bolted like a frightened deer. He knew it would be difficult to prove his innocence before a magistrate.

The police used to have a Masher Squad whose duty was to scour the town for the male Romeos. I believe it has been abolished. New York women know how to take care of themselves. If friendly sympathizers do not handle the passing philanderer the corner policeman will.

Several years ago a sculptor of note, walking the avenue, hurried to catch up with a lady. He thought she was his wife and he slipped his arm through hers. She was a stranger and when he realized there might be a scene he fell to the sidewalk in a faint swoon. The lady hurried away and Samaritans helped him into a taxicab. Quick thinking that!

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

LaFollette's Status

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—One of the big surprises in connection with the opening of the new congress was the action of the Old Guard Republican leaders in according Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., a measure of recognition as a Republican when he presented his credentials as the new senator from Wisconsin. It was a right-about-face on the part of the veteran Republican solons who have never had any use for progressives or radicals, and who had served notice in advance of his election that young Bob would never be received into the G. O. P. fold.

That they should so reverse themselves occasioned the customary nine days' wonder in Washington. Moreover, it led to endless speculation as to the influence, the reason, or the man or men, that brought it about.

The generally accepted explanation was that the party leaders had decided on a policy of conciliation in dealing with the progressives because of the margin by which the Republicans held control of the senate, and that President Coolidge, concerned lest his administration be featured by another party rupture, had much to do with the decision.

Looking ahead to the presidential contest of 1928, and bearing in mind the importance of getting their legislative program through congress with as little friction and as expeditiously as possible, it was said, the G. O. P. chieftains had concluded that it was more important to get people into the Republican party than it was to hard or kick out undesirable. Therefore LaFollette would be taken in—net welcomed and made a fuss over—but taken in, and given an opportunity to demonstrate that he was a Republican, as the voters of Wisconsin had said he was on sending him to the senate. He was recognized as a bad boy, but it was hoped that he was not incorrigible and that under kindly tutelage and gentle but firm discipline he might be persuaded to mind his p's and q's and become an ordinary member of orderly society.

Heredity vs Environment.

According to the theory underlying this explanation an experiment would be made that might go far toward determining the moot question as to whether heredity or environment is the controlling influence in moulding character. The senator LaFollette had been a trouble maker in and out of the Republican party for more than a quarter of a century. LaFollette, the younger, was his father's son, but perhaps he was not really a chip off the old block. Perhaps, if he were to be taken into the fold and given the right kind of associates—given a chance to live and have his being in an atmosphere of sweetness and light, so to speak—environment might triumph over his blood heritage.

It is an interesting theory—and plausible, for that matter—but it develops that it is not correct, if the story that has just leaked out be true. Young LaFollette was received, tentatively, into the Republican party, not with any idea of working out his regeneration and making him a desirable and valued member, but essentially for the reason that the late Woodrow Wilson took the late William Jennings Bryan into his official family as a member of his cabinet.

"I'd rather have him on the inside looking out than on the outside looking in," Wilson is said to have replied to his close friends who expressed their amazement that he had invited Bryan to become secretary of state. "He'll make trouble, inside or out, but I hope to handicap him slightly." The history has not yet been written—at least, such an up-to-date history is not used in the Washington schools—which says whether Wilson was right or wrong, but political observers here who chronicle events that may become history are substantially agreed that he was right. Bryan did make trouble for Wilson, but nothing comparable to what he might have made if he had been a free and unrestrained critic of everything Wilson did from the day the latter was first inaugurated.

In the case of the junior LaFollette, however, there was a further consideration that had much to do with the decision to give him committee assignments as a Republican.

No Halo of Martyrdom.

"Why start him off on his career with the halo of martyrdom irradiating his youthful head? Why bar him from the party when we don't know as yet whether he wants to be in it? Why make him important before we know whether he is important? Why go behind the returns from Wisconsin and say he isn't a Republican before we have a chance to see what he is? Why do something to make him a first page story in every newspaper in the country before we see whether he can make the first page under his own steam? Why give him a chance to signalize his appearance in the senate by making a speech attacking us that will attract nation-wide attention? Why treat him otherwise than we would treat any other new senator-elect certified to us by his secretary of state as a Republican? Why play his game for him when he is only hoping we'll do what we've threatened to do?"

These questions, or substantially these questions, were asked in the G. O. P. council by none other than Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, a regular of regulars, and the last man to be expected to take such a stand but for the fact that he is a shrewd politician.

And it may be said in vindication of Senator Smoot's astuteness that if the new senator from Wisconsin eventually appears adorned with a halo it will be one of his own making, and not one of martyrdom fashioned for him by those who do not like his particular brand of politics or Republicanism.

An interesting bit of gossip about the status accorded LaFollette has it that President Coolidge was informed at length and in detail concerning Senator Smoot's ideas as to the wise course to be pursued. Whereupon the president delivered himself of the longest speech he has made on any subject pertaining to party politics since he was elected.

"Sounds sensible!" he is reported to have said.

They were mistaken, LaFollette, the younger, it seemed, knows more or less about politics. He simply sat tight and ignored the communication. The returns from Wisconsin said he was a Republican. All right—let somebody say he was not!

The result was that he was given tag-end assignments on unimportant committees as a Republican, and nothing more was said about it.

And it may be said in vindication of Senator Smoot's astuteness that if the new senator from Wisconsin eventually appears adorned with a halo it will be one of his own making, and not one of martyrdom fashioned for him by those who do not like his particular brand of politics or Republicanism.

An interesting bit of gossip about the status accorded LaFollette has it that President Coolidge was informed at length and in detail concerning Senator Smoot's ideas as to the wise course to be pursued. Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation, send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at C. G. Anderson's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

POPULATION IS CONCERN OF TOKIO LEADERS

Fear Day Will Come When Japan Cannot Support People.

SEEK OUTLET

Many Now Look to Siberia and Manchuria for Homes.

TOKYO.—The spectre of overpopulation constantly haunts the statesmen and leaders of public thought in Japan. Of the many problems that beset the nation that of caring for its surplus people is, perhaps, the most pressing. The fear of the nation's leaders is that the day will come when the agricultural and industrial resources of the nation no longer will be able to bear the burden of supporting the nation's people.

With this question of surplus population constantly in their minds, it is not surprising that leading Japanese are frequently to be found proposing new schemes for distributing the people of the country to sparsely settled regions where opportunities for self-support are more numerous.

One of the favorite plans proposed is the colonization of the Hokkaido, one of the largest islands of the Japanese group that lies to the north of Hondo, the main island of the group. The Hokkaido has large areas of unsettled land and is rich in natural resources, but the severity of its climate renders it unattractive to a majority of the Japanese. Emigration to South China and the South Sea islands also is sponsored by many, but this idea never has gained a foothold in responsible quarters.

See Two Outlets.

Of late an increasing number of persons have been turning their eyes toward Manchuria and Siberia as a possible outlet for Japan's increasing population. This solution now has been sponsored by a committee on Food and Population appointed by the Kenseikai, the dominant political party and may eventually become a plank in that party's platform.

This scheme proposed by the committee calls for negotiation of treaties with China and Russia, which would grant large tracts of uncultivated territory in Manchuria and Siberia to Japan for development. Japanese immigrants would be encouraged to settle in these territories and Japanese capital would provide funds for development work. It is alleged that there are more than 12,000,000 acres of land suitable for such purposes in Transbaikalia, Amur and the Maritime Province east of Baikal in Siberia.

Food Value Also.

Besides affording an outlet for excess population, the proponents of this plan aver, it would also result in increased production of rice, wheat, beans and other foodstuffs highly essential to Japan.

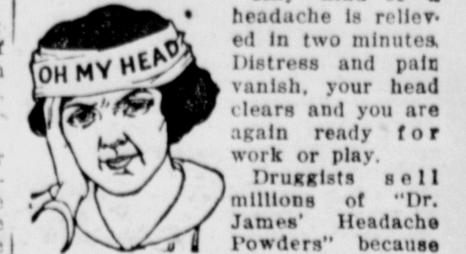

That Japan's hope of solving her population problem lies in distribution of her surplus people somewhere in the sparsely settled sections of the Asiatic mainland is known to be the belief of a majority of her responsible leaders. It would not be surprising, therefore, if an attempt eventually were made to work out a plan along the general lines suggested by the Kenseikai committee.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Although Stark County Coroner McQuate returned a verdict of suicide, following the girl's death, friends of the family in Wellsville today asserted that the girl had swallowed the disinfectant accidentally, using it as a gargle for sore throat.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES' MEMORY PLAYS HIM ANOTHER MEAN TRICK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The memory of Vice President Charles G. Dawes has played him another trick, it developed today. Last night the vice president and Mrs. Dawes attended a dedication banquet at the Hamline Methodist church. When the ceremonies were over, the church women presented Mrs. Dawes with a huge bouquet of flowers, explaining it was her birthday.

Gen. Dawes was dumbfounded. Somewhat embarrassed, he said: "I'm sure Mrs. Dawes will doubly appreciate this. I forgot it was her birthday and didn't get her anything."

The vice president once forgot to turn on an alarm clock while taking a nap, and his absence from the senate floor cost Charles B. Warren of Michigan the attorney generalship. Warren was defeated by one lone vote.

STRESSEMAN SPURNS WILSON PEACE PRIZE

Inability to go to New York Given as Excuse.

BERLIN COMMENT

Press Hints Refusal Direct Against Late President.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Herr Stressemann has refused to accept the annual peace prize of the Wilson foundation not because of animosity towards the late President Wilson but because it would be impossible for him to go to New York on the birthday of President Wilson to accept the prize, according to a statement made today by the foreign office.

The foreign office denied reports that Herr Stressemann had refused the prize because he charged that the late President Wilson had failed to insist upon his fourteen points as the basis for a peace settlement.

The Nationalist press is making much of Herr Stressemann's refusal and is using it as a vehicle to arouse again old animosities, hailing the decision as an act of patriotism.

Der Tag declares that Stressemann's act properly voices the feelings of all Germans with regard to the late Woodrow Wilson, but adds that the "United States should realize that the decision is only directed against the father of the fourteen points and is not intended as an offense against the United States generally."

Deutsches Zeitung assails Stressemann, not because he refused the prize, but because he failed to refuse it upon moral and political grounds.

CROWD HEARS REV. W. A. KNAPP

Evangelist Speaks on "Eternal Record" at M. P. Church.

Increased interest marked last night's revival meeting in the First Methodist Protestant church, when Rev. W. A. Knapp, of Westerville, spoke on "The Eternal Record."

A song service preceded the meeting. Russell Kauffman, evangelist singer, rendered "Grace Greater Than Our Sin." The choir sang "How Can I Help But Love Him" as an offertory.

Rev. Mr. Knapp said in part: "Each of us will have to give an account of ourselves to God, and when the books are opened we will be judged by the records we are writing today. The Lord has His eye upon us and the records will be minute, including every word, action and thought of our life. All the remorse and agony of your soul cannot alter your eternal record."

"But, that sinful record of the past can be blotted out by the blood of the Son of God and the page can be made white and pure."

"When God opens the books, will your name be written in the Lamb's book of life? Because your name is on the church record does not mean that your name is written in Heaven."

Tonight will be official board night. Rev. Mr. Knapp's subject will be, "The Ideal Church."

Capitol Hill Digs Self Into Trenches For Political War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—With Capitol Hill digging itself into trenches for a protracted political war, the senate judiciary committee today launched an investigation of the department of justice's alleged delay in bringing an anti-trust prosecution against the Mellon-owned aluminum company of America.

Sponsored by Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D.) of Montana, famous Teapot Dome prosecutor, the investigation started out with the expressed purpose of learning why the department of justice failed to take action upon a complaint issued against the aluminum company in November, 1924, by the federal trade commission.

It was speeded up because Walsh declared, unless such a prosecution is started by January 30, the statute of limitations will prevent any court action.

Administration leaders were watching the investigation closely, because of its political significance. They saw in it not only a direct attack on Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, but also upon President Coolidge's personal selection for the attorney generalship, John G. Sargent.

THAMES, SEINE RIVERS RISING

British and French Towns are Under Water.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Floods in the Thames valley were seriously aggravated today by a renewal of the heavy rainfall. A number of villages and small towns were reported completely under water.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—All trains were diverted from the Invalides railroad station to the depot Montparnasse today owing to a sudden rise of the Seine which threatened to flood the tracks.

The Seine rose 36 inches during the last 24 hours and this morning was creeping menacingly upon the suburbs of Paris. This year's deluge, however, is still five feet below the high mark of 1924 and eight below the disastrous washout of 1910.

Except for these two record marks the rise of the waters this year exceeds any since 1882. Creil, Nogent and Montataire have been flooded and 10,000 are out of work.

The night express from Brussels was hours late in arriving, long stretches of track having been completely hidden from sight by the waters. The Seine is expected to reach its high water mark tonight or tomorrow.

Large supplies of bread and other food are being rushed to the flooded districts of the Oise valley.

Reports from Brussels state that the floods there are receding in the northern part of Belgium. Much of the Brussels mining district is under water and 15 houses in the town of Seraing have collapsed.

Holland is gradually returning to normal conditions, although it will take many weeks to repair the damage done by the high waters.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Industrial stocks were buoyant in the early trading today, continuing the rally which was in progress at the close of yesterday's session nearly all of the active oil, motor, independent steel and public utility stocks advanced on good buying to higher price levels in the first period, under the same leadership. Consolidated gas sold up to a record high price of 97 1/2 in the lead of utility stocks, and United States Steel immediately resumed the advance which featured Wednesday's closing period.

The money market displayed an easier trend, with call rates at 4 per cent and time funds available at slight concessions from last week's prevailing rates. Yesterday's excellent dividend records brought in additional buying orders from the outside points, and current reports from the steel industry were characterized as unusually favorable for this time of year.

General Motors, Willys-Overland and other active motor stocks sold about a point higher. Chrysler was represented by the new stock, with valuation of a fourth of the old shares, removed from the trading list today.

Rumors of a new gigantic merger of independent oil companies operating in the mid-continent field were without special effect on the market for independent oil stocks, though prices were marked up fractionally higher at the opening and the higher values were generally maintained. Pacific oil sold up fractionally to 61 1/2, Simms at 26 1/2, Marland above 58 and Pan-American B above 75.

The independent steel stocks were also in fairly good demand on a rising market, Bethlehem steel selling above 50 for the first time since last April. Woolworth made a new gain of 4 1/2 points and reached 21 1/2, in the lead of the mercantile stocks; American Can and other high priced speculative leaders sold up from 1 to 3 points. Outside commodity markets were slightly irregular.

President Hears Men Who Urge Rail Labor Board Death

Financiers and Railroad Chieftains Recommend Creation of Another Agency Less Obnoxious to Capital and Labor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The men who finance and manage the great railroad systems of the nation and the men who actually operate them, presenting a united front, today laid before President Coolidge a proposal for abolition of the much-discussed railroad labor board and the substitution therefor of another agency, less obnoxious to capital and labor, yet still affording "adequate protection to the public."

The new proposal, it is understood, contains features embodying regional adjustment, mediation and arbitration.

The boat will leave Pittsburgh on February 4, returning about February 25, the round trip requiring about 21 days. It will reach East Liverpool on the down river voyage on the evening of February 4.

YOUR HEALTH Why a Mother Should Nurse Her Baby If Possible

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHAT is the most important profession or occupation? Medicine? Engineering? Statesmanship? Journalism? Architecture? Farming? Plumbing? Teaching? Preaching?

The most important business in the world is the mother job.

God could not be everywhere so he made mothers. They are the immediate agents of the Almighty.

Without proper feeding no baby could live to grow up. The best chance of surviving lies with the breast-fed baby. Unfortunately, not every mother is well enough, or otherwise capable of nursing her infant. Mother love is such that she gladly does this, cheerfully making the personal sacrifice if she can.

If breast feeding is impossible, or if it must be supplemented by additional food, there arises at once a new problem. The problem of preparing cow's milk for human consumption is a complicated one.

From earliest times it has been found necessary to "modify" the cow's milk in order to make it suitable. This is done because of the difference in the chemical and physical make-up of the two milks. It is only an occasional child who thrives on undiluted or unmodified cow's milk.

If the unchanged cow's milk is given a baby, it is very likely to develop stomach and intestinal troubles. The infant does not gain weight, nor give evidence by close skin and firm flesh that it is properly nourished.

The common thing to do is to add water and sugar to make the artificial feeding as much like human milk as possible. But even when these changes are made, the cow's milk is not ideal because it is capable of neutralizing the stomach juices. On this account it may seriously disagree with the digestion.

It has been found that acidified milk does not neutralize the gastric juices. Efforts have been made to avoid stomach disturbances by adding small quantities of lactic acid to the baby feedings.

The latest work in this line has been done by Drs. Alfred F. Hess and Milton J. Matzner, of New York City. They have upset the old prejudice against a mixture of milk and orange juice.

Sometimes egg yolk was combined with this mixture. This supplied with other important elements of the food.

Such a mixture has other advantages over plain cow's milk, because it gives the child a food which guards against scurvy and rickets. It supplies iron and the growth-promoting vitamins.

If your baby isn't thriving as it should, talk with your doctor about these new ideas in infant feeding. He may not think they are desirable in your case. In any case, it is better to get his opinion, which is better than everybody else's, because he knows all about you and your baby.

Count Salm, married to an heiress of the Rogers Standard Oil fortune, demands that his son, and her son, be turned over to him, pending the outcome of his suit to gain permanent possession of the child.

A few years ago that would have been a matter of course. Every court would have said, "of course, the child belongs to the father."

Public opinion influences even the laws. It now may be decided that the mother has rights in the child that she has created, and in this case, incidentally, to the child that she supports.

FIRE DESTROYS COMPANY HOUSE

Three Irondale Families Flee as Flames Raze Home.

Three families were made temporarily homeless when fire destroyed a company house on the property of the East Ohio Sewer Pipe Works, at Irondale, last night.

The fire, breaking out shortly after 7 o'clock, is believed to have originated from an overheated stove in use in one of the sections of the building.

The structure, of one-story frame construction, was burned to the ground, the flames spreading over the building rapidly. Only part of the furnishings and equipment of the three families was saved.

No one was injured during the fire. The loss is estimated at approximately $1,000.

W. F. Lones, J. H. Brookes, L. P. Metzger and Frank L. Wells Will Attend Cincinnati Conference.

W. F. Lones and J. H. Brookes, of East Liverpool, have been chosen as two of the four members of the Columbiana County Bar association who are to represent the local bar group as delegates to the annual mid-winter conference of the Ohio Bar association at Cincinnati January 28, 29 and 30. L. P. Metzger of Salem and Frank L. Wells of Wellsville are the other delegates from Columbiana county.

Recodification of the criminal code of Ohio is to be urged at this conference and the local delegates will be called upon to assist in deciding whether the state bar association is to demand that the legislature enact a measure providing such a reform. Elimination of the technicalities by which many criminals escape justice, and a speeding up of court procedure is expected from recodification, according to the committee on judicial administration and legal reform which has recommended the proposed change.

It is probable also that discussion will be had of the proposed abandonment of the grand jury system by Ohio, since the same committee has made an exhaustive survey of this subject.

The three day session is to be closed by a testimonial dinner to former Governor Judson Harmon, of Cincinnati, the oldest living ex-president of the state association. Former U. S. Senator Chester I. Long of Kansas, president of the American Bar association, is to be the principal speaker at this affair.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During The Day. C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) I had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder trouble." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as enemas do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, Druggist.

STATE HOSPITAL IS OVERCROWDED

A report received yesterday by the board of control from the superintendent of the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Hopewell, Preston county, shows that institution to be considerably overcrowded.

At the beginning of December there were 282 patients and at the end of the month and year 291, whereas the institution's capacity is estimated at only 270. The highest number for the month was 294. Of the 291 at the end of the year, 147 were males and 144 females.

In December there was one death, while five were discharged as apparently cured and the same number as improved and seven as not improved.

Eighteen months ago the number of patients was 266, which indicates that the increase has not been particularly rapid.

LARGEST CHECK ISSUED BY STATE

A check for $750,000 was drawn the other day by State Treasurer W. S. Johnson on a local bank to be transmitted to New York to take care of obligations maturing on January 1. Mr. Johnson is of the opinion that never before had the state issued a check for more than $25,000.

Under the old law in effect prior to July 22, last, the state's funds were so scattered that big financial transactions were made possible only by a multiplicity of checks. Then each department head deposited the receipts of his office where he wished. Had that system been retained, it would have been necessary, in the opinion of the state treasurer, to issue 200 or more checks to complete the $750,000 payment.

Clever Dancing Is Feature of Al G. Field's Minstrels

Two Doran Brothers, Bert Swor, Jack Richards and Billy Church at Ceramic Theatre Tonight.

Dancing of the kind that fascinates the eye to watch—quick, nimble and eccentric—will be an important feature of the new 39th annual edition of the Al G. Field Minstrels, which will be seen at the Ceramic theater tonight.

The two Doran Brothers, Billy and Leo head the dancing cast, which has remained practically intact for years. Billy Doran directs and coaches the dances and many of them are his own original interpretations.

This season he has concocted a most pleasing diversion out of the nursery rhyme, "Little Boy Blue," which he calls "A Study in Azure and Ebony," which, with wonderful costuming and especially written music, presents a unique study. In the last act of the show his dancers appear on the lawn of a colonial mansion of Louis XIV. in a guise of huge yellow sunflowers. All his costuming is unique in design and brilliant in coloring, and his swift-footed chorus forms a bright, moving spot on the stage.

were served. Mrs. Mary Rogers, welfare nurse, and Miss Rachael Payne were present.

Bert Swor heads the cast of this year's edition, and minstrel lovers all over the country are glad to welcome back this intangible comedian. Jack Richards and Billy Church head the singers, and when these two boys step on the stage to sing they stop the show. Their repertoire is necessarily large, for they are called upon for so many encores to satisfy their numerous friends and admirers.

HIGHWAY BIDS WILL BE ASKED

County Commissioners Plan to Advertise Many Projects.

It has been officially announced that the county commissioners propose to advertise for bids on or about February 1st for the grading and surfacing of three road projects as proposed in the road construction program suggested by the board last year, and as a part of the improvement measures covered by the $500,000 bond issue approved at the November election.

One of the first roads to be improved with a concrete service is the North Georgetown-Valley road, for a distance of 2.65 miles. This road has been estimated to cost $109,000. The second job to be advertised will be the improvement of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road from the West-Knox township line northward to North Georgetown a distance of 2.08 miles. This work has been estimated to cost $60,000.

Bids will also be sought for the grading and constructing of drainage structures on that part of I. C. H. No. 502 or the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from the sub station on the Y. & O. railroad northward and westward to Apple's corners where the road will connect with the Lincoln highway. The distance to be graded has been placed at 3.52 miles, and the cost of this part of the final contract has been estimated at $60,000.

The county commissioners have also approved plans and have forwarded them to the state highway department at Columbus for the surfacing of that section of I. C. H. No. 381, the Wellsville-Salineville road and known as the "Salineville section." This half mile piece of road is within the corporate limits of the village of Salineville, and is the only section between the two terminals not now surfaced, but which is "out of the mud" because of being chundered.

It is expected the state highway department will include this contract in the February letting, as it is proposed to have the road surfaced early in May if possible. On account of the short haul for materials, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk is of the opinion that the surfacing of this section should be finished within four weeks after the first concrete has been poured.

Plans for the improvement of section D-1 of I. C. H. No. 502 from Midleton north to the Mahoning-Columbiana county line have also been approved by the commissioners and forwarded to the department at Columbus. This stretch of over four miles will be graded and surfaced this year, and the job will also be included in the February letting.

The commissioners have been officially informed that the state highway department will maintain the present center section of the Lisbon-Elkton road, for a distance of about two miles. The location of this road eastward from Elkton has not been determined by the state highway department, although a public hearing was held on this project several months ago, with W. C. Pawcett, state locating engineer as examiner.

An agreement has been entered into between the county commissioners and the state highway department whereby the state and county funds are to be used in the construction of that section of I. C. H. No. 12, or the Benton road out of Salem to the Mahoning county line.

The county commissioners have also an agreement with the state whereby the county has agreed to finance and build the county portion of the Centerville-Columbiana road in this county, a distance of about 600 feet.

Plans for the improvement of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from the East Liverpool city limits north have not yet been completed by Surveyor Kirk.

She Could Never Have Done It With Piles!

Bless the American girl who has glorified all the sports! She makes a pretty picture in the water, and is a pretty swimmer, too. Piles are unthinkable for active women. If you have them, you ought to know this simple thing to do!

At any hour or moment that you have the least distress or discomfort from piles, use a single Pape's Diapiesin suppository—and go happily on your way! The worst hemorrhoids, even the most annoying and painful piles respond to the soothing suppository applied in perfect privacy. But bear the name in mind; Pape's is the one every druggist has, usually the only one he will sell his patrons. Pape's is marvelous. Why suffer another single half-hour with painful piles?

Sixty cents the box, the world around. But for proof, a free box plainly wrapped will be sent to those who write Pape's Drug Co., 200 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Injunctions Against Assessment Collection Granted.

Judge James G. Moore, of common pleas court at Lisbon, granted temporary injunctions to six property holders, restraining the city of East Liverpool from the collection of certain street improvement assessments.

The property holders are: Elizabeth J. Herbert, Vida N. Mackall, Mary Alice Buckley, Leroy Rhinhart, R. J. Marshall and Barbara Borg. The petitions were filed by Attorney Ben L. Bennett. The property, located in Fifth street, Jefferson street and East End, is involved in the litigations.

The last case to be filed is that for Mrs. Herbert, who owns property in Fifth street. She charges that no improvement notice was served upon her, and that the city therefore is not entitled to the collection of the assessments.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Correct weight can be yours.
be shapely.

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."

Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?

And what would you say if, you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?

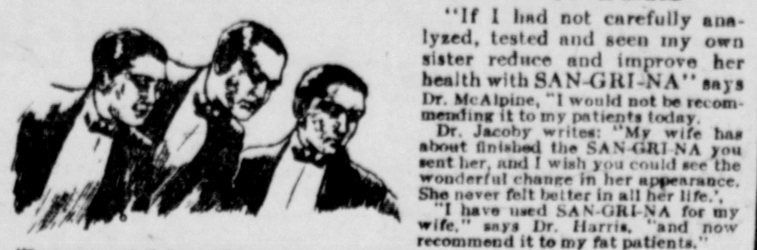

Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.

You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood.

WHY PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND SAN-GRINA TO FAT PEOPLE

FRENCH DISCOVERY IS ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS AND WORKS WONDERS

"If I had not carefully analyzed, tested and seen my own sister reduce and improve her health with SAN-GRINA," says Dr. McAlpine, "I would not be recommending it to my patients today."

Dr. Jacoby writes: "My wife has almost finished the SAN-GRINA you sent her, and I wish you could see the wonderful change in her appearance. She never felt better in all her life."

"I have used SAN-GRINA for my wife," says Dr. Harris, "and now recommend it to my fat patients."

REDUCE 63 POUNDS
"I weighed 200 pounds," writes Mrs. M. D. Pasquale of Worcester, "and lost 63 pounds. I would like to have another box of SAN-GRINA."

Up to now physicians have rarely advised anything to reduce outside of diets or exercises (both tiresome and ineffectual) because they knew of nothing HARMLESS and EFFECTIVE, but today, in recommending SAN-GRINA, a doctor feels that it is something with real merit, so entirely different from all the advertised fat reducers, that he does not hesitate to advise its use even to his own family. Prominent medical men, such as Dr. Rudolph, former Health Commissioner, endorse SAN-GRINA AS THE ONLY SAFE, positive and quick way to slenderness he knows of.

SAN-GRINA is the formula of a French physician. It is put up in a small, convenient tablet, to be taken three times a day. Although only recently introduced in America, SAN-GRINA is now recognized as the most effective treatment for fat people, because:

→ IT HAS REDUCED MOST OBSTINATE CASES OF OBESITY.
→ IT DOES AWAY WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE, PUFFING, HEADACHES, TIRED FEELING, AND THE FAT MAN OR WOMAN WHO TAKES SAN-GRINA ONCE MORE ENJOYS LIFE.
→ IT IS ENTIRELY DIFFERENT FROM ANYTHING EVER OFFERED.
→ IT IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC: Beware of worthless imitations. SAN-GRINA is sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded. Go to your druggist today, be sure to ASK FOR AND GET SAN-GRINA.

Sold at all good drug or department stores or you can send direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, New York City.

Before he had recovered from that his hip-bone was broken and he was made a cripple for life. Almost a year he lay in a plaster paris cast and for a long while he was not able to walk, even on crutches.

During all the long months of his illness prior to his almost fatal injury, and throughout the years that have followed, the Cade family have had to make out as best they could. For Mr. Cade was not a wealthy man, and the family was ill prepared for the adversity which befell them. The four children, Opal, Macel, Houston and Elmer, were all young, and their mother had to divide her time between her housework, her care for her brood, and her care for her stricken husband.

Wanted Education.

Mrs. Cade was anxious that her children go to school, and she toiled to that end, but when Opal was twelve it seemed that she could be spared no longer. She, with her two younger brothers, had been attending a country school five miles southeast of Belton, in Bell county, where they lived.

She was a girl, but she was the eldest, strong and capable for her years, so she went to work in the fields.

It seemed that from the very start Opal was destined to be the mainstay of her family. Overtaxing her strength, perhaps, in her efforts to meet the demands made upon her, Mrs. Cade fell ill. She was not confined to her bed all the time but her health became so poor that she was forced to leave more and more of the housework and the work about the farm home, to Opal.

When Opal was thirteen her sister Elmer was born. The baby was ill a great deal and frequently Opal found it necessary to sit up most of the night caring for her, or for her mother, or Mr. Cade. But regardless of how long or strenuous the vigil had been, or how sleepy she was, Opal knew that she must be at work the next day, and when the day came she went.

The winter her father was forced to lie helpless in the plaster cast proved an extremely hard one for the Cade family. The next spring the children earned money by chopping cotton, and by this time Opal could hold her place beside the best of them.

The next winter the family fared better. With the money the children had earned picking cotton and that they had received from the cotton they sold, they paid their debts and began to make plans for the next year.

The next spring, or when she was only fourteen years old, she undertook the cultivation of a whole 75-acre farm.

Now a Student.

That was four years ago. Opal is now eighteen and a student in Baylor academy and she is showing the same energetic determination in her fight to win an education that she did in her fight to wrest a living for herself and her loved ones out of the stumpy soil.

Her entrance upon her life as a student was in every way as dramatic and unusual as her experience on the farm. Interested friends had told her that at Baylor College for Women, in Belton, any girl with pluck and determination could win an education even though without money.

"Then that's where I am going," she said.

Last August she appeared on the campus, announced unblushingly that she did not have enough money to buy a railroad ticket back home, only 15 miles away, and put in her bid for the first job that presented itself—any kind of a job that would allow her to come to school.

She got a job as a dishwasher. Today she is a full-fledged student, and she vows that she will never miss a day until she leaves the campus with a sheepskin under her arm.

For years Baylor college has been noted for the system, begun under the direction of Mrs. Eli Moore Townsend, whereby deserving girls can come and make their way, regardless of handicaps, almost, but at no time has there ever come a girl who has created a profounder impression upon the student body and the college authorities than Opal Cade.

As is to be expected, there are many more applicants than there are possible openings. Heroic efforts are made to help every deserving girl who comes, but the college cannot hope to meet every need. All of the girls, in what is known as the cottage home system, earn a part of their expenses by a self-help or "duty" arrangement, but only a very few of them are able to earn even the greater part of their expenses.

Found Every Place Filled. When Opal Cade came and explained her case to the college authorities she was told that every place had been filled. The hostess in charge of placement was struck by Opal's enthusiasm and earnestness, and listened with deep sympathy to her story, but to have given her what she needed would have meant that some other girl must be deprived of a chance. So

Opal was regretfully told that there was no opening.

Pausing long enough to thank the hostess for her courtesy, she hastened to Mrs. Ella Y. Ely, one of the committee in charge of the cottage home system, whom she had met since her arrival. To Mrs. Ely she poured out her whole story all over again. And it was evident that instead of sending her back to the farm in discouragement this first disappointment had merely strengthened her determination.

"I am going to stay here if I have to sleep on one of the campus benches," Opal said.

She had arrived in August, during one of the short between-term vacation periods. Mrs. Ely was then in the midst of a thorough housecleaning. Ely Pepper hall was being prepared for the girls who were to return within a few days to take up their summer's work.

"You see what we are doing," Mrs. Ely said. "Here's a broom and a dust rag and there's a floor mop down the hall. Gather them up and come with me. You may help me here until we have finished our housecleaning. Maybe by that time something will turn up."

Opal did as she was bidden; did it with a vengeance.

And something did turn up. Mrs. Ely found that she could give Opal a six-hour sweeping duty for the five weeks' term, but she could promise nothing after that.

At the end of the five weeks' term the ambitious girl was on the edge of a nervous breakdown, partly because she was unaccustomed to being indoors as much as her new tasks required, and partly because she was worried so much for fear that she would be unable to stay for the fall session. At length she was sent to the hospital for two days, and when she came out she was twelve hours behind with her work. The college physician said that she should rest between terms, but, as Opal put it, she "had to catch up."

So she worked twelve hours a day for two days.

Gets Her Chance.

But no guarantee of work for the fall term came. It seemed that nothing would happen. Opal was sent away from the Ely-Pepper hall and out into the town of Belton to the home of Mrs. Ely's sister. It seemed that, try as her friends might, nothing could be done to assure her schooling for the fall term. Her spirits at the lowest possible ebb, Opal was preparing to make the best of the situation when she received a message from the placement hostess to come to her office.

"One of the girls who was to wait tables in the Luther hall dining room has found that she cannot come," the hostess said. "It is a six-hour duty, two every morning, two at noon and two at night. Do you want it?"

She wanted it so much that she almost hugged the hostess. And tradition has it that she actually did go out of that office singing as she went.

Opal is a familiar figure in the dining room. She wears the same smile she must have worn when her corn was in tassel and everything was going well at the farm. Perhaps the smile is even broader than it was then. If it isn't there is every reason for it to be. She has made friends, not only of her classmates, many of whom doubtless owe their better grades as much to knowledge of the fact that if they do not "hustle" she will exceed them, as to their willful studiousness, but also of the girls whose food she serves.

But even in her present happiness, which, after all, would not constitute happiness for many with less pluck than she, Opal realizes that the road before her is a long one, and that all her problems are not solved. She says that she expects some day to be a foreign missionary, but right now her chief concerns are her work and her studies. She is particularly interested in mathematics and her grades in this subject are particularly good, but she is taking everything required of one who expects to receive the A. B. degree.

"I am going to have that degree some day," she will tell you smilingly, confidently. "I am going to do more than that. I am going to put my little sister through college, too."—New York World.

"Adobe" Comes Back

as Building Material

Los Angeles, Cal.—The sun-dried brick is coming back into popular favor in southern California as a material for building purposes.

"Adobe" was used by Franciscan fathers in the building of their missions and later many homes and commercial structures were erected with these rudely made bricks.

As the years wore on, however, adobe fell into desuetude.

"Mission style" homes, churches and business blocks long have been popular in southern California, but ordinarily these have been built of brick or frame with a coating of stucco.

Lately, however, the old custom has been revived, and everywhere in southern California modern small homes and ranch houses are being built of adobe. In Los Angeles a number of exclusive residences, whose owners could well afford the most expensive of materials, have been fashioned of adobe.

Hornsby Leads National In Total Bases and Runs Batted In

Tops League Sluggers Sixth Straight Time

Registers His Highest Average, .756, Since Assuming Leadership in 1920; Wright, Barnhart, Traynor and Cuyler, of Pirates, Bat in Total of 443 Runs, More Than Half Club's Tallies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Further honors today were accorded the man to whom honors are fast becoming a formality. With the release of official miscellaneous averages by the National league, Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis Cardinal ace, resumed his place on the pedestal, leading his league in slugging, total bases on hits and runs batted in.

It was the sixth straight time Hornsby had topped the league in slugging and, to make the occasion more memorable, he registered his highest average in this respect, .756. This figure is arrived at by dividing the total bases by the number of times at bat. Hornsby assumed the leadership in slugging in 1920 and has yet to relinquish it, his yearly marks being .559, .639, .722, .627, .696 and .756.

In leading the way in total bases, with 381, Hornsby was in front in this department for the fifth time in the last six years. In leading in runs batted in, with 143, he achieved his fourth success since 1920.

There were other leaders and some of them were not so proud of it. Charley Hartnett, of the Chicago Cubs, for instance, struck out the most number of times, 77, and Eddie Roush, of Cincinnati, was caught stealing more often than any player, 20 times.

Jack Fournier, of Brooklyn, received the most passes, 86, and John "Stuffy" McInnes, of Pittsburgh, fanned the least number of times, once in all. Hazen Cuyler, his team mate, was hit by pitched balls 13 times and gained the doubtful distinction of leading his league in this respect.

Nine men batted home 100 runs or more, the list including Hornsby, 143; Fournier, 130; Jim Bottomley, St. Louis, 128; Glenn Wright, Pittsburgh, 121; Clyde Barnhart, Pittsburgh, 114; Emil Meusel, New York, 111; Harold Traynor, Pittsburgh, 109; Zach Wheat, Brooklyn, 103, and Cuyler, 102. The four Pirates mentioned, Wright, Barnhart, Traynor and Cuyler, batted home a total of 443 runs, more than half of the tallies scored by the entire club.

Boxing Pilot's Press Jargon Packs Punch

"He is not just big—he is the paprika of petrifying punches, rougher than the English channel, tougher than a tank, and gamier than Nathan Hale. He takes it like an old time bartender, bangs them until they bark like a boll weevil and when he whams them they stay whamed."

No, this is not a case for the doctor. These terrifying words are of a southern boxer's manager teeling how good his scrapper is.

Another member of this manager's stable is supposed to measure up to these standards:

"He's so speedy he couldn't get hit in a cloudburst and loves abuse like a shiek likes Stacomb. He just slaps the taste right out of their mouth and massages their maps till they meow like a muskrat."

Still another boxer of the same stable is credited with these possibilties:

"He is faster than a punch-drunk pug, as cold-blooded as a Klondyke Christmas, can take more punishment than a Ford; a biff on the nose makes him happier than an undertaker at a bogtrotter's picnic; he paws them till they purr like puss in a pantry; he never kissed the canvas and no one ever heard the referee chortle his cheerless chant over him."

Golf Rulers to Consider Ball Will Act to Regulate Weight and Size.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The United States Golf association will take action in regard to the ball at the annual meeting here next Saturday. At the last annual meeting, in New York, William C. Fownes, Jr., chairman of the committee on implements and the ball and now nominee for president, stated that his committee was convinced that a ball not less than 1.68 inches in diameter nor more than 1.55 ounces in weight would meet all requirements.

Inasmuch as the British committee had not been able to reach a conclusion, Fownes said, his committee recommended that final decision in the matter be postponed until the United States Golf association met in January, 1926. It has been the aim of the United States Golf association, Fownes said, to bring about international accord, if possible, before inaugurating any reforms.

There is no list. The new pilot is a hard-boiled, square-jawed, determined person. When he says something he means it. Despite these forceful qualities, he is a kind, understanding man, who knows how to handle players and what to do in times of difficulty. That was the secret of his success in Louisville; that, and the ability to teach recruits how to play baseball. Down in Louisville they are watching Joe. They think he will show followers of the major circuit that McGraw isn't the only strategist in baseball.

With this kind of a leader the Cubs should do something this summer. Of course McCarthy can't produce a winner unless he has the foundation, but club officials firmly believe they have the foundation now. The outfield has promise, the pitching staff has been reinforced, the catching staff is no weaker and more infielders have been added to the list.

There is no question but that McCarthy will have a much better hitting team than his predecessors directed. By acquiring Hack Wilson, O'Doul and Scott, the outfield has been made considerably more powerful. There was the weakness last year. The men were not bad fly chasers, but when it came to swatting the ball they fell down.

Both McCarthy and Veeck will attend the minor league meetings at Catalina Island January 12, 13 and 14. They will be looking for more material. That they are seeking a few men is certain, but whether they will be successful is a question. Veeck, however, says he will be hunting ivory as long as there is ivory to hunt.

SPORTSMEN TO NAME OFFICERS

Local Fish and Game Branch Meeting Tonight.

Election of officers will occupy the attention of members of the East Liverpool branch of the county fish and game Protective association at their meeting tonight in the Fowler building.

In addition to naming officers of the local branch, the sportsmen will also elect delegates to the governing board. This organization is scheduled to convene in Lisbon next week for its annual election also.

J. S. Lambing is president of the East Liverpool branch at the present time. Walt McClelland is vice president. Brady White, secretary-treasurer.

John L. King, of Salem, is head of the county organization. Sweitzer, of East Palestine, is its vice president and J. C. Miller, of East Liverpool, the secretary-treasurer.

Must Get Licenses.

Fond disciples of Izaak Walton who would take junior or other youthful hopes with them on fishing excursions in Pennsylvania waters this year should know that a change has been made in the code which requires all fishermen 16 years of age or older to equip themselves with a license. The reduction of the age limit from 12 to 16 years is one of the most important changes in the new code. Other changes include restriction of fishing devices, the elimination of permits for special devices, the changing of daily limits on certain catches and the making of non-resident fisherman's license reciprocal with other states and fixing the minimum of this license fee at $2.50.

Prefers to Meet Champ Rather Than Flowers

PITTSBURGH—It may be just plain "apple sauce" or an honest confession which prompts Harry Greb to say that he would rather meet Paul Berlenbach, the light heavyweight champion, than battle Tiger Flowers. But whatever it is here's what the middleweight champ has to say: "Flowers gave me one of my hardest fights and he's a better fighter than a lot of people give him credit for being. If he's as good now as the day I met him in Fremont, O., 18 months ago then I am frank in stating that I fear him more than I would if it were Paul Berlenbach I was scheduled to fight."

Schaefer Sets New Cue Record In Regaining Billiard Crown

Has Average of 93.75 for the 16 Innings it Took to Trounce Edouard Horemans, Belgian Ace.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—"Young Jake" Schaefer today again has possession of the world's 18.2 ball-line billiard crown.

With a grand average of 93.75 for the sixteen innings Schaefer took to trounce Edouard Horemans, the Belgian cue ace, a new record was set up in championship billiard play. The final score for the three blocks was 1,500 to 890.

It was a different Schaefer from the man Horemans defeated recently. From the start on Monday until he had accumulated 1,500 caroms at the end of the third block, Schaefer outplayed his rival. This feat is also heightened by the fact that Horemans, himself, played far better billiards than the average. But the Belgian wasn't in the same class with Schaefer this match.

Yesterday's Score:

Schaefer x2, 140, 128, 7, 190, 33—500. Horemans—24, 44, 3, 18, 221—320.

X—Schaefer continuing from unfinished run of 123.

Averages—Schaefer, 83.3; Horemans, 64.

Grand Average—Schaefer, 93.75; Horemans, 55.63.

LISBON QUINT GETS DECISION OVER POTTERS

Independents Outlast Collegians in 32-22 Contest.

PLAYING their first game following the holidays, or, in fact, since the visit of Franklin & Marshall Academy here, the East Liverpool Collegians tumbled before the Lisbon Independents, 32-22, last night on the Rollaway rink, at Lisbon.

Lack of practice sessions were felt by the Collegians at the tail end of the third quarter. Until that time, the Ceramic City delegation was leading. After that they trailed and finally finished second to the county seaters.

The Lisbon cage pilot made numerous substitutions in the third and fourth periods and the constant stream of fresh material into the contest counted heavily against the potters who, fagged out as they faced the home stretch, were unable to keep step.

Playing against a combination consisting of Richardson and Rush on the forwards; Meford at center, and Hum and Fagan at guards, the locals ran up a 5-1 score at the end of the first quarter. They were still leading, 11 to 7, at the half. But their advantage gradually dwindled away, until at the close of the third period, they found themselves on the short end of the tally. Wain and Todd played the forwards for the Collegians, with Joe Canne at center, and Crawford and Anderson at guards.

The Collegians are slated to play the Canton Jack Art Jewellers on Wednesday, January 13, at Canton, in a preliminary to the game between the Canton Professionals and the Boston American Basketball league team. In February the Jack Arts will be brought to this city for a return engagement.

Power Passers to Face Millers

The Power basketball team will open its post-holiday schedule on Friday night with the fast Miller Bros. quint, of Columbiana, on the M. E. church court here.

The Columbiana outfit needs little introduction to fans of the vicinity. The roster shows such ex-high school and former college stars as Graham, "Boots" Hawkins, Kyser, Kngesal and several others of like calibre.

The Power passers have gotten off to a good start, winning eight games out of nine played. They make up one of the leading independent cage teams of the district, with such well known players on the job as De Rockhold, P. Jester, C. Stuart, E. Bucher, W. Ashbaugh, O. Cunningham, H. Dickey, A. Mensforth and E. Cochran.

EAST END STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Forman Lincome Discusses Need of Church in Talk.

Declaring that the great need of the church at present was more Pentecostal fire, Evangelist Forman Lincome spoke to large crowd last night at the revival services in the Oakland Free Methodist church.

His sermon, in part, follows: "The temperature of the church and the world is too much alike. We need to be melted up and thawed out. God never intended the church should be a refrigerator in which to preserve perishable piety, but intended it should be an incubator in which to hatch out young converts. "Some churches pack their pastors in an ice house and then criticize him because he does not sweat in a Montana blizzard. A red hot cannon ball thrown into an ice house must part with its heat in melting the ice. My prayer is that God will set the churches of East Liverpool on fire. Some of them would make a mighty big blaze, for they are so very dry. "His subject tonight will be: "A Model Young Man." The meetings will close Sunday, January 17.

For Head Colds

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to sniff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

BLIZZARD STRIKES HOME
 Coughs and colds are a natural sequence to an unexpected blizzard, and should be treated promptly to offset complications. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a pleasant and effective remedy for coughs and colds. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency. "The children of Foley's Honey and Tar helped us right away," writes Mrs. Mather, Richmond, Ohio. Foley's Honey and Tar is a good cough remedy for the whole family. It contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.

Near Tragedy Marks Filming of "White Desert," Here Today

Ever present dangers and near tragedies marked the filming of "The White Desert," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Reginald Barker, which is now showing at the American theater today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The picture was filmed in the blizzard swept snow sheds of the Continental Divide in Colorado. Members of the cast and the technical staff of the Barker company were exposed to hardships and dangers at every turn. Percy Hilburn, cameraman, and his assistant, Wallace Chewning, on one occasion literally had a speaking acquaintance with death. The company was working in a howling blizzard and the cameramen had their cameras facing an oncoming snow plow on the front of a train. The engineer operating the train misunderstood the signals and in the blizzard he was unable to hear the shouts of warning.
